JURY SHIFTS PROBE TO NEEDLESS CARS IN COUNTY SERVICE

'Secret Five' Assembles Figures in Detail; Law Questions 'Haste' Over Auto Sale to Employes.

Grand jury inquiry into use of county automobiles swung deeper on a new angle yesterday when that body voted unanimously to investigate the number of "unnecessary cars" and car allowances and to "make specific recommendations naming the cars and the jobs" which can be eliminated.

Jurymen formally criticized county commissioners for their haste in selling county-owned vehicles and setting up the new allowance and mileage plan proposed by Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale, but announced they are "not opposing the plan" at the present time.

The "secret five" committee of jurors reported to the whole grand jury that "there is considerable evidence of abuse of the county car system."

Down to Brass Tacks.

These announcements came yesterday from Thomas C. Law, foreman of the jury, in a statement to the newspapers following the action of the grand jury in voting to continue and to broaden its investigation of the car situation, started several weeks ago after two county employes were injured in the wreck of a county car in south Georgia while on a fishing trip.

Law said the jurors intend to investigate thoroughly the need for every county passenger car allowance and to bring out recommendations which will name the jobs which do not need county travel allowances or cars.

The jurors intend to go into the matter of car assignments so thoroughly they will be able to recommend the number of miles for which each employe should be paid in using an automobile on county duty each month, the foreman added.

"Five" Get Figures.

It was known that the "secret five" have assembled figures for a period of months showing the average number of miles, supposedly on county duty, which each car has been driven.

It was because of the facts and figures obtained by the "secret five" that the jury as a whole yesterday voted not only to continue its probe, but also to broaden it.

It was understood that the jurymen are going to take under consideration the place of residence of each county employe in relation to the duties he performs in traveling at county expense.

As an instance, it was pointed out that some county policemen live within their "beats" (the area they police) and do not report per-

DIRECT RELIEF HIT AS SHORTSIGHTED

Head of Public Welfare Board Urges Program of Corrective Planning.

Two generations of corrective planning will be required before relief can be eliminated, W. E. Mitchell, chairman of the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare, declared in a statement last night.

Terming direct distribution of relief funds on the present month-to-month basis "too shortsighted a view," he urged:

1. Limiting the propagation of the physically and mentally unfit.

2. Improvement in living standards of the negroes and the poorer classes of white persons.

3. Teaching the poorer classes to be worth more and then paying them more.

"Direct relief, as necessary as it is, won't bring any lasting improvement in the situation," he asserted. "We've got to get to the root of the trouble. As long as we are content to keep servants in our homes at a few dollars a week we've got to pay the difference in increased taxation to pay for the housing of the criminal and the diseased and for the support of those unable to earn their own living."

Citing the change in the relief situation during the last 10 years, Mitchell said that the continued business depression had made the problem more acute and that the policy of the federal government had contributed toward a breakdown in the old spirit of independence.

"This retarded business activity is not a temporary proposition," he declared, "and unless the proper steps are taken, direct relief will have to be continued indefinitely. Family pride is breaking down. People are expecting more and more help. And if they don't get it they will demand it.

"This is a problem for all liberty-loving people. The sooner the general public realizes the extent of the problem with which we are faced the sooner we can begin to take steps to solve it."

Clark Says His Carole Okay After Operation

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—(AP)—"She's okay," said Clark Gable to friends who telephoned today at a hospital to aske about his wife, Carole Lombard.

Miss Lombard, ill for two days and unable to work, was taken to the hospital late last night for an emergency appendectomy. Gable sat up with her all night.

Girl Is Born To Juliana of Netherlands

Dutch Hopes of Male Heir to Throne Given Setback Again.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 5.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands presented the House of Orange with another daughter early today.

The child was born at 1:09 a. m. (7:09 p. m., Atlanta time, Friday) at Soestdk palace.

There had been high hopes among Netherlanders that the baby would be the first male heir to the throne of the little kingdom in almost a century.

Princess Beatrix, the first child of the 30-year-old Juliana and 28-year-old German Prince Bernhard, was a year old last January 31.

The hour was such that the general public, long anticipating the event, was not aware of the birth of the baby.

The announcement was made briefly by ticker services to newspapers. At 7 a. m. the news will be broken to the public by a salute of 51 guns—signifying the birth of a girl. A 101-gun salute would have been fired for a boy.

AUTO TITLE BILL WILL BE OFFERED TO LEGISLATURE

Measure To Curb Thefts and Facilitate Tracing Set for Presentation at the Next Session.

By LUKE GREENE.

A proposed bill requiring owners of motor vehicles to establish conclusive proof of ownership when applying for license tags will be submitted to the Georgia legislature at its next session and an effort made to have it made law, it was revealed yesterday.

Its purpose is designed to curb automobile thefts and make easier the work of law enforcement officers in tracing real owners of motor cars through license numbers, and is an outgrowth of a study made by the May-June term of the Fulton county grand jury. The plan to see that such a law is passed was outlined yesterday by Joseph A. McCord Sr., former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Atlanta and a member of the May-June grand jury.

Proposed Provision.

Principal provisions of the proposed act are as follows:

1. That the seller of an automobile be required to issue a bill of sale in triplicate, requiring two witnesses to the bill of sale, one of whom shall be a notary public.

2. That the bill of sale shall be dated, with name and residence of buyer, value, type and model of car, motor number, serial number, where, when and to whom the car was delivered.

3. One copy of the bill of sale shall be retained by the seller, one copy shall be given to the purchaser and the third copy mailed to the clerk of the superior court to be recorded. A recording fee of $1 shall be required.

4. That owner of automobile be required to produce a bill of sale when applying for a license tag.

The proposed law further provides that failure to comply with these requirements should be made a misdemeanor.

"While I was serving on the grand jury I was confronted with so many cases of automobile theft I thought something should be done to improve the present conditions," McCord said. "I believe this proposal will fill the need."

Numerous complaints have been registered against the present law under which the owner of a vehicle is required only to swear to his ownership. Approximately 30

JAPANESE-TURN WRATH AGAINST CITIZENS OF U. S.

Anti-Foreign Drive Forces Americans To Pack for Flight; Britons Say 'We Told You So.'

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Americans were reported preparing to flee from Kaifeng today as Japan's anti-foreign campaign in that area apparently turned against Americans and American inerests.

Broken telegraphic communications hid the precise situation in the North China city but reliable information said Americans there were planning to leave immediately.

The reported flight of the Americans followed the sacking of a British firm's offices in Tientsin.

A mob of Chinese, said by Britons to have been Japanese-instigated, attacked the Tientsin offices of the British International Export Corporation, smashed all moveable equipment and tossed it into the Hai river.

British and Chinese employes of the concern took refuge in adjoining property of the American-owned Texas Oil Company.

Britons Warned U. S.

Harried Britons long have been telling Americans "your turn is coming soon," particularly since the United States abrogated her trade treaty with Japan July 26.

The belief that such a turn of events was imminent grew with unconfirmed reports of anti-American developments in Kaifeng, Honan province. Though details were lacking it was understood United States Consul General Clarence J. Spiker in Hankow had protested to the Japanese consulate general against anti-Americanism in Kaifeng.

Britons recently have been forced by Japanese to leave Kaifeng, where there are extensive American mission properties and some United States commercial enterprises.

Sentries Unfriendly.

The unfriendly attitude of Japanese sentries toward Americans in Tsingtao has roused fears there that they soon will be victims of the anti-foreign campaign. Reports circulated that Japanese consulates would refuse further permits to Americans for travel in the Japanese-occupied sections of China in retaliation for treaty abrogation.

Soon after today's anti-British violence in Tientsin, British residents of the blockaded British concession received letters from "The Chinese Patriotic Youth Association" warning them to leave Tientsin altogether since "the anti-british movement may develop into direct action which the Chinese government will not be able to control."

Previous threats have been directed against Britons outside the concession and Chinese employed by Britons, but these were the first warnings to Britons residing

British Drop Time Due to Ciano Story

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—W. H. Smith & Son, English agents for Time magazine, said tonight notice had been received from the Wholesale News Agents' Federation that it "has been agreed" the federation would not handle the publication after the July 31 issue.

An official of Smith's, Britain's largest retail magazine distributors, declined further information.

Perry Prentiss, vice president of Time, Inc., said in New York no direct word had been received from the federation, but that the British distributor said there were reports the action was based on an article in the July 24 issue of Time dealing with activities of Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Italian Premier Mussolini.

One-Woman Bucket Brigade Lands Job

This is Miss Martha Shields, who went to the state capitol yesterday with a mop, a bucket and a box of washing powder—and got a job as a typist in the revenue offices. Miss Shields took her uncle, T. Grady Head, revenue commissioner, at his word when he said he'd put her to work cleaning the building. The young woman posed with her mop in the senate chamber.

A Mop Wins Girl State Job as Typist

A mop, a bucket and a box of washing powder won a job at the state capitol yesterday for 20-year-old Martha Shields. She's going to be a typist.

Of course, persistence and imagination played their parts too. And thereby hangs the tale—a story of pluck, the overcoming of obstacles and the long arm of coincidence.

Let's begin at the beginning! For a long time Martha, who attended Commercial High school, had been trying to get a job at the capitol, where her uncle, T. Grady Head, is state commissioner of revenue.

The fact that Head is a relative—he is a brother of Martha's mother—didn't seem to help much. In fact, every time Head called at the Shields home at 291 Josephine street, N. E., Martha asked him about work.

Jokingly, Head usually replied: "Sure, I'll give you a job cleaning up the place."

Came Thursday night and Head again called at the Shields house. This time, in answer to head's customary remark about work, Miss Shields said:

"All right. I'll be there in the morning."

Yesterday Miss Shields arrived at the capitol and she carried a mop, bucket and washing powder. She presented herself to L. C. (Tiny) Groves, Head's assist-

TYDINGS BOOSTED FOR PRESIDENCY

Baltimore's Calvert Club Puts Marylander Forward as a Candidate.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Democratic presidential speculation turned suddenly to Maryland today when friends of Senator Millard E. Tydings tossed the militant New Deal "purge" survivor's hat into the race for the party's 1940 nomination.

The 49-year-old ex-army officer's name was added to the rapidly growing list of presidential possibilities by Baltimore's Calvert Club, which asserted already-printed campaign stickers and the club's projection of his candidacy both had Tydings' "full approval."

In Washington, the Free State's senior senator neither confirmed nor denied the political organization's claims, and added, "I have no statement on that" when asked flatly if he would be a candidate.

DEFICIENCY BILL GIVEN CONFEREES FOR ADJUSTMENT

Exodus From Capitol Gets Under Way With 22 Senators and 100 Representatives Absent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Working into the evening to clear the way for adjournment of the 76th congress tomorrow, the senate passed tonight a deficiency appropriation bill containing about $189,000,000, or $135,000,000 more than the sum previously approved by the house. The administration requested $215,000,000.

Chief among the additions made by the senate was an administration-requested appropriation of $119,000,000 to make loans on surplus crops and thereby keep them off the market. This item, turned down by the house earlier in what was called a major victory for the economy coalition, went through the upper chamber on a sweeping 61 to 7 vote.

Goes to Conference.

The deficiency bill is to go to a senate-house conference tomorrow for reconciliation of differences. The controversy is the only major one in sight before adjournment, which all sides agree will come some time tomorrow.

After the farm loan vote, the senate continued its session into the night, amid an excited swirl of parliamentary maneuvering. Various senators tried in vain to tack on to the deficiency bill amendments which would: (1) Restore the "prevailing wage" for WPA workers; (2) soften the effects of a new rule of law which says that persons on the WPA rolls 18 months must give way to other relief applicants; (3) provide for federal refinancing of farm mortgages.

Restore Pay-Hour Item.

On a voice vote the senate approved an amendment by Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, to increase an item for expenses of the wage-hour administration to $2,000,000. The house voted $1,000,000.

Meanwhile, amendments to broaden and revamp the social security system and "freeze" old-age pension taxes emerged from a long deadlock between senate and house conferees. The house speedily approved them and sent them on to the senate.

A short time later the house recessed until tomorrow, thereby destroying the hopes of those legislators who had believed that congress might adjourn tonight.

The senate in late night action gave the La Follette civil liberties

TODAY'S BEST STORY

Semi-Invalid Rescues Niece, 5, of Atlanta, From Drowning.

INDIAN ROCKS, Fla., Aug. 4. (AP)—Webster Morgan, summer visitor from Greensboro, Ga., and a semi-invalid, was acclaimed a hero today after the rescue of his 5-year-old niece, Caroline Nichols, from possible drowning in the Gulf of Mexico. The child is a daughter of Mrs. L. F. Nichols, of Atlanta.

Morgan has been unable to take exercise or undergo any exertion because of a heart ailment. Sitting near a beach cottage, he saw his niece wade into too deep water and heard her cries for help. He dashed to the child—300 feet away—went into the water without removing his clothes, swam to where the girl was struggling, and returned her to shore, where he collapsed.

Physicians were summoned to apply restoratives to the rescuer, who was recovering today. The child suffered no ill effects beyond fright.

Fatal Bicycle Collision Fails To Mar City Traffic Record

And Survey Shows Most Accidents Are at Stoplight Intersections!

By WILLARD COPE.

Two remarkable traffic anomalies came to light yesterday as Atlanta pressed steadily forward through its 69th day without—officially—a fatality on its streets.

Two negroes on bicycles collided, and one died of a skull fracture, but it was ruled that this wasn't a traffic fatality because no motor propelled vehicle was involved. This was in line with the reasoning of the National Safety Council, which also takes the position that, if a street car hit a pedestrian and killed him this wouldn't be a traffic fatality either.

The second development in the higher stratosphere of traffic research brought out the interesting conclusions that stop signs are better than traffic lights—and that no-signs-or-lights-at-all is better still.

To reach this second conclusion it was necessary to use motor-propelled apparatus, to wit, a very high-powered machine that adds, divides, multiplies (and possibly confuses) all at one time, if treat-

Traps Reveal Japanese Beetles Are Infesting Area in East Point

A new point of Japanese beetle infestation—in the East Point area—was disclosed last night by M. S. Yeomans, director of the Georgia Department of Entomology.

Announcing results of findings in the 4,400 traps which have encircled the city, Yeomans said a total of 187 beetles were found. Of this number, 164 were in traps in the new East Point area which Yeomans described as 17 acres opposite the Central of Georgia railroad yards at East Point.

Despite the showing of the beetle for the first time in East Point, Yeomans said the traps revealed progress in the battle to control and eradicate the pest.

In this connection, he said only 19 beetles were found this year in the area from the Byway to North Decatur road, and on Briarcliff road. This compares with the 136 beetles found in that section last year.

"We started treating the area with an arsenate of lead solution in February," said Yeomans, "and have had satisfactory results. Naturally, the new infestation area will be treated."

Besides the 4,400 traps in and around the city, traps were placed at Jonesboro, railroad yards and residential sections where shrubs are likely to be brought in, Mr. Yeomans said.

The traps are baited with an oil with a geranium base which attracts beetles for a thousand yards around. Traps are not to eliminate the beetles, Yeomans said, but merely to determine the presence of the pest.

The Japanese beetle first showed up in Atlanta in 1937, said Yeomans. At that time, seven beetles were caught in traps on Oxford road. The area was treated, and no beetles have been apparent there since.

GOVERNOR POLLS LEGISLATORS ON SPECIAL SESSION

Private Survey Asks Opinion on Revenue To Finance Schools and Other State Services.

By The Associated Press.

In a private poll, Governor Rivers asked legislators yesterday how they felt about a special session and how they thought revenue should be raised to fully finance schools, welfare and health services.

Promising to keep replies in strict confidence, he also wanted to know assembly members' reaction to the report of house economy investigators, who suggested state income could be expanded without any new taxes, or increase of existing rates.

Asked if the poll letters were sent to all 252 legislators, the Governor said, "They've been sent to the vast majority of them."

Although guarding individual replies, he said he would report on the trend of sentiment. He has said repeatedly when asked about calling a special session that he was "ready and willing" to do so when he was convinced the legislature was "ready to do its job."

ACTORS SUSPEND SOPHIE TUCKER

Trouper Barred From Stage and Radio.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Sophie Tucker, veteran trouper known as "The Last of the Red Hot Mamas," was ruled off the stage today.

The council of Actors' Equity Association suspended Miss Tucker pending a hearing August 22 on charges filed by five members of the association. The charges, though withheld, were described as accusing Miss Tucker of "conduct prejudicial to the association."

The suspension bars Miss Tucker from any theatrical appearance. She had been sheduled to reopen in the musical comedy "Leave It To Me" August 21.

Miss Tucker also has been barred from making any radio appearances as a result of her suspension last night by the American Federation of Radio Artists, which gave her 15 days to answer charges.

Her 'Ecstasy' Film To Be Shown Tonight

Fully clothed and pensive in this picture is Hedy Lamarr, the Austrian star of "Ecstasy," which is finally to be shown in Atlanta under protection of the Fulton superior court.

'Ecstasy' To Be Shown Here Tonight By Permission of Fulton Courts

Showman Beats Censors to the Punch by Getting Injunction Against Them Before They Get One Against Him; It's Hedy Lamarr 'Au Raw.'

"Ecstasy," that oft-banned, oft-enjoined, oft-censored and oft-censured motion picture showing Austria's Hedy Lamarr au raw, is coming to Atlanta tonight by permission of the Fulton superior court.

Hedy's strip act faithfully reproduced on the film has twice been rebuffed by Atlanta's official censors. Raymond Lewis, the exhibitor, through his attorney, W. George Thomas, secured an injunction restraining Mayor Hartsfield, general council and Police Chief Hornsby from interferring in any way with the scheduled showing of "Ecstasy" or from interferring with the customers who come to see just what it was about this picture that caused Hedy's nobleman husband of bygone days to try to buy up every existing film of his then wife's exposure.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey granted the temporary injunction to Lewis, setting the hearing for August 11. Until that time officers of the law cannot prohibit its showing, unless the city steps in and gets the temporary restraining order set aside before that date.

Thomas, the lawyer, said Sherwood Astin, chairman of the board of film review, had refused to look at this "revised" edition of "Ecstasy." He added the "revision" did not include exclusion of the famous scenes which Hedy's hubby objected to other people seeing.

The exhibitor attempted to show Hedys' "Ecstasy" here in 1937 and 1938, Thomas said, but without success. It was banned, forbidden, prohibited and not allowed to be screened, he added. But it was screened in Birmingham and Athens, Ala., Memphis and Nashville, and scores of other southern cities.

Now, under the protection of the superior court, it is finally going to be shown.

O! Ecstasy!

LAWRENCE S. CAMP LAUDS HATCH BILL

Indorses Measure as Being in the Best Interest of Good Government.

Lawrence S. Camp, head of the Democratic Council of Georgia, United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia, and New Deal standard-bearer in last fall's senatorial primary, yesterday indorsed the Hatch bill as being in the best interests of good government.

"My personal activity in politics has been the result of my keen interest in my idea of good government, and since the bill is a step toward confining political campaigns to principles and preventing them from being job-promising, money-spending, machine-controlled contests, I am wholeheartedly in accord with it, and expect to rigidly enforce it in the northern district of Georgia," he said.

"Machine politics and intimidation of employes in private business during political campaigns are two of the greatest enemies of good government. The Hatch bill tends to prevent these breeders of government evils, and the congressmen and senators who supported this bill are to be commended for their willingness to make their political machines impotent at the time they were outlawing the exercise of undue political influnce by employers upon employes," Camp continued.

The district attorney pointed out that the bill partially destroyed the advantages those in power have over those out of power, and regretted that secretarial forces of national representatives were not brought under its provisions; and that no limitation was placed on campaign expenditures in party primaries.

He concluded by stating the law "wisely, expressly protects the right and duty of federal employes to express their political views, and does not prevent them from resigning their positions should they aspire to elective offices."

U. S. PROSECUTORS CAN'T SEEK OFFICE

District Attorneys Must Resign If They Want To Run, Murphy Says.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy advised all federal district attorneys today that, under the new Hatch law, they could not continue to hold office if they became candidates for political jobs.

Murphy's advice was directed specifically to two United States attorneys and one assistant attorney, but the Justice Department announced he also had sent similar instructions to all other federal district attorneys.

He told Charles F. Uhl, district attorney at Pittsburgh, and Assistant District Attorney John B. Ray that under the Hatch law they could not campaign for state offices and retain their federal jobs. He likewise telegraphed the federal attorney at Chattanooga, Tenn., who had said he was contemplating becoming a candidate to fill a vacancy in the house of representatives, that he could not enter that campaign while holding federal office.

Uhl already had announced publicly that he was resigning to run for a judgeship.

CHANIN'S TEAM LOSES IN BRIDGE TOURNEY

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 4. (AP)—New York and Philadelphia bridge teams advanced tonight into the final round of the master's team of four title in the national contract bridge tournament.

The four aces, Oswald Jacoby, M. D. Maier, Howard Schenken, Theodore Lightner, and Robert McPherran, alternate, all of New York, decisively defeated the team of Sherman Stearns, Morrie Elis, Robert Appleyard, Harry Fishbein, all of New York, and Henry Chanin, of Atlanta.

The Philadelphia team of Mrs. R. C. Young, Charles Goren, John R. Crawford and Charles J. Solomon, downed the New York team of Charles S. Lochridge, A. Mitchell Barnes, Edward Hymes Jr., and Waldemar Von Zedtwitz.

Safety Education of People Is Urged

Miss Marion Telford, National Council Official, Honored at Luncheon by Leaders of City.

Engineering, enforcement and education, the three most important props of any traffic safety program, are mutually dependent, and no one of the three should be stressed to the detriment of the others and eventually the whole program, Miss Marion Telford, educational director of the National Safety Council, said yesterday.

Miss Telford spoke at a luncheon in her honor, tendered by Atlantans who have worked to reduce the city's traffic fatalities.

Representing the state was Lon Sullivan, commissioner of the Department of Public Safety.

Others present were many principals of the city's grammar and junior high schools, Mayor Hartsfield, sponsor of the 25-mile-an-hour speed law, and Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic department of the city police, and instructor and guardian angel of Atlanta's schoolboy patrol.

Education Stressed.

Stressing the educational end of safety campaigns, Miss Telford traced the growth of schoolboy patrols from 1913 until today, and the development of classes in traffic safety from extra-curricular activities to their integration into the required work of most of the schools of the country. In addition, she pointed out that more than 100 teacher training institutions now offer credits for safety education courses.

Explaining that while there is a co-operative ground of mutual interest between engineering, enforcement and education, she wondered if educators weren't leaning a little too heavily on police officers.

"Co-operative relations with the police are essential," she stated, "and educators must continue to co-operate with them. But the responsibilities of educators, engineers and enforcement officers must be clearly allocated, and then everyone should do his own job with the co-operation of others."

She urged teachers to learn to appreciate their own importance, and take a more prominent part in community activities, which she believes they have neglected because of shyness.

Thanks Better Element.

Before introducing Miss Telford, Mayor Hartsfield dwelt on the reduction of traffic fatalities in Atlanta, which he said had been attained with the co-operation of the "better element."

There is, however, the mayor pointed out, an anti-social group of citizens in every town, who consistently violate laws, and who will not obey the city's traffic regulations without the threat of severe punishment.

For that group he recommended jail sentences instead of fines, and announced that he was looking for somebody with enough courage to put those people behind the bars.

"Those constant offenders are potential killers and murderers," he stated, "and jail is the only thing in the world that can stop them."

Others who made short talks were: Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools; W. S. Kirkpatrick, managing editor of the Georgian; Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, and Lon Sullivan.

Captain Malcom acted as toastmaster.

The action followed a strenuous debate in which Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, declared that $100,000 was needed.

GEORGE, RUSSELL VOTE CROP LOANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP) Senators George and Russell, of Georgia, cast their votes today for the restoration of $119,000,000 for crop loans in the third deficiency bill.

The item had been stricken from the bill by the house. The bill now goes to conference and then will be referred back to both houses.

Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, roared denunciation of the civil liberties committee.

"What in the name of God have we come to?" he asked. "A snooping committee going around to ask if your civil rights have been violated!"

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, alluding to the fact that the civil liberties investigation has been conducted by La Follette and Senator Thomas, Democrat, Utah, said:

"It seems peculiar that two senators alone should conduct this committee. They have the same philosophy."

Angrily, Thomas protested that Johnson was unfair.

Thomas contended that all committee hearings had bee nfair, and that there had been no coercion of witnesses.

Vote Monetary Probe.

The senate also voted $25,000 for a broad study of national monetary and banking policies by its banking and currency committee. The resolution was offered by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, as a result of controversies over administration policy. The New York senator asked $100,000 for the study, but this was cut to $25,000.

The sweeping changes in the social security law are designed to provide more and bigger benefits and still save the taxpayers about $905,000,000 in the next three years.

The deadlock over the amendments broke when the senate conferees agreed to drop the Connally amendment, which would have required the federal government to contribute $2 for every state dollar provided for old-age assistance, up to a total of $15 monthly per beneficiary.

Representative Treadway, Democrat, Massachusetts, said the most important change effected by the amendments was the freezing of the old-age insurance tax rate at its $15 monthly per beneficiary.

Elimination of the amendment by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, designed to help the poorer states, restored the house provision under which the federal government would match, dollar-for-dollar, state contributions for the aged up to a total of $40 a month per beneficiary. Present law provides for dollar-for-dollar matching up to a total of $30. All these provisions for public assistance to the needy aged are distinct from the old-age insurance system, under which workers contribute to pensions for themselves.

Treadway said the most important change effected by the amendments was the freezing of the old-age insurance tax rate at its present level of 1 per cent on both the worker and employer for the next three years. This tax was scheduled under existing law to increase to 1 1-2 per cent on both on January 1, 1940.

An amendment limiting the employer's unemployment compensation tax liability to the first $3,000 he pays each worker would give the employers a saving which has been estimated at $65,000,000 annually.

Liberalization and extension of the act's benefits would add about $1,500,000,000 to the program's cost during the next five years, experts estimated.

One of the principal liberalizations would start the payment of old-age annuities in 1940 instead of 1942. Another would provide monthly benefits for aged wives, widows, children and aged dependent parents, previously covered by lump-sum payments on the death of the insured.

Retroaction Permitted.

Another important section of the measure would permit persons who already have reached their 65th birthday to continue their old age insurance tax payments for the purpose of building up a sufficient reserve to obtain monthly benefits. These persons 65 and over may commence these pay roll payments retractively from January 1, 1939.

The original social security law stopped pay roll tax payments as soon as a person reached 65, regardless of whether the person continued to work, and paid him a lump sum benefit if he had not built a reeserve sufficient for monthly payments. It was estimated by the Social Security Board that over a 15-year period from 1939 to 1954, this new provision would increase the amount of benefits by about $695,000,000. This sum is to be paid out of the pay roll tax collections.

All seamen on ships of American registry would be brought under the old-age insurance provisions of the law, as well as certain bank employes and employed persons over 65 years of age. These groups would add about 1,100,000 persons to those already covered.

Another change, aimed at one of the principal criticisms of the law, decreased the size of the old-age reserve account and created a board of trustees to administer it.

Originally estimated by some persons to reach $47,000,000,000 by 1980, the reserve would be limited to three times the highest annual benefit payments expected during the succeeding five years.

In a formal statement, Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, said that while many of the proposed amendments were constructive, he did not sign the conference committee report "because I felt so strongly the necessity of a greater measure of federal assistance to the poorer states of the union, as embodied in the Connally amendment." Senator George, of Georgia, was one of the conferees who signed the report.

22 Senators Leave.

It was obvious that many members had already decided the rest of the session was not worth staying around for. Senate officials said 22 senators had left town. A house quorum call showed considerably more than a hundred members not answering their names.

These circumstances gave the harassed administration leadership a new worry. Seventeen of the 22 absent senators were Democrats. The figures pointed to an anti-administration majority in case a controversy should arise, as congressional disputes sometimes do out of no foreseeable situation.

LONDON BLAST INJURES 100, WRECKS BUILDING

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—London's wholesale district was shaken today by a gas explosion which injured more than 100 persons—four seriously—shook ancient St. Paul's cathedral and demolished a vacant five-story building.

HOLC INTEREST CUT TO 4 1-2 PER CENT

Slash To Save $5,000,000 Yearly; Prolonged Amortization Period Voted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Home Owners Loan Corporation, which has on its books about $2,400,000,000 in loans to home owners, today cut its interest rate on much of this money from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent.

At the same time, congress sent to the White House a bill prolonging the amortization period on HOLC loans from 15 to 25 years.

The double action followed persistent efforts in congress and out for better terms for HOLC borrowers. Monday, the Federal Housing Administration announced a cut, from 5 to 4½ per cent, in interest rates on small home mortgages issued by it.

John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, said the HOLC reduction would save borrowers an estimated total of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year. HOLC officials said the cut would apply to more than 800,000 borrowers.

The corporation passed on to home owners interest savings made as the result of the corporation's recent $900,000,000 refunding operation.

Fahey's announcement said, "the reduction, which will apply to all borrowers who meet their obligations in accordance with their contracts, will be put in effect as soon as the many necessary detailed arrangements can be completed."

COUNTY COMPLETES FINAL SEWER LINK

Lateral Lines From Several Areas Combined Into Three Trunks.

The final link of sewer to end the health menace of raw sewage in Peachtree creek has been completed by the county in co-operation with WPA, Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale, chairman of the county public works committee, announced yesterday.

At a cost of approximately $6,400, lateral sewers from Buckhead, Haynes Manor, Peachtree Heights, Peachtree Hills and Garden Hills have been combined into three trunk sewers to connect with the main metropolitan trunk line sewer to the Clayton disposal plant.

Work on the last link of the last sewer from the Buckhead area has just been completed, and no more raw sewage will be run into the stream, Ragsdale said.

It removes a menace to public health in the area by eliminating stream pollution, M. C. Bishop, assistant chief of county construction said.

Ragsdale, Bishop, Ed Almand, chairman of commissioners; William Hansell, assistant chief of construction of the city, who is in charge of the metropolitan sewer system, and M. P. Cornett, county sewer department foreman, inspected the finished project yesterday.

ALBERT BUTLER, 51, CITY FIREMAN, DIES

Held Rank of Lieutenant 5 Years; Was Native of Dallas, Ga.

Lieutenant Albert Butler, 51, of 906 Stewart avenue, S. W., a veteran of more than 25 years of service with the Atlanta fire department, died at a private hospital last night after an illness of about two weeks.

A native of Dallas, Ga., he moved to Atlanta about 30 years ago and for a short time was connected with the Georgia Power Company. He joined the department in 1913 and had held the rank of Lieutenant for five years.

Surviving are his wife; three sisters, Mrs. C. R. Wix, Mrs. J. R. Crowley and Mrs. J. W. Clark, and four brothers, J. H., Lonnie and Ben Butler, all of Dallas, and Captain G. P. Butler, a retired officer of the Atlanta police department.

Inspecting Last Link of Sewer To End Health Menace of Raw Sewage

CAN YOU SAY WHAT YOU MEAN?

Can you write a clear, concise, meaningful letter? One that conveys your message or imparts the information you wish to give? One that is interesting, readable not stiff and stilted, one that conveys something of your own personality to the recipient?

The booklet, "Letter Writers Guide," available from our Service Bureau at Washington is a complete guide to the production of business and social correspondence. It discusses the various essential parts of a letter, gives sample forms for letterheads, addresses, salutations, subscriptions and signature, a list of correct official addresses—and most important of all tells the how and why of the content of the body of the letter.

ATLANTA BUSINESS GAIN REPORTED BY BANK, POST OFFICE

July Department Store Sales Up 9 Per Cent While Postal Receipts Increase 6.49 Per Cent.

Atlanta postal receipts and department store sales last July increased substantially over July, 1938, figures released yesterday by the post office and the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta show.

The month's postal receipts totaled $373,732.95, a gain of $22,778.90 or 6.49 per cent over the same month last year, Postmaster Lon F. Livingston announced.

The city's department store sales for the four weeks ending July 29 gained 9 per cent over July, 1938, as did department store sales in the entire Sixth Federal Reserve district, the bank reported.

Sales in Atlanta for the week ending the same date showed a gain of 19 per cent over the preceding week, and of 3 per cent over the same week a year ago, while district sales were up 12 per cent over the previous week and 6 per cent over the corresponding week of 1938.

GROUP TO ASSIST PARK OPERATION

Committee Named To Assist in Handling Vogel Recreation Area.

An advisory committee to assist in the operation of Vogel State park, similar to the committee named to help handle Pine Mountain park, was announced yesterday by Eugene Bothwell, acting director of the division of state parks.

Named on the Vogel committee were Dr. T. J. Lance, of Young Harris; Arthur Moody, of Suches; Judge Tom Candler, of Blairsville; Dr. L. G. Neal, of Cleveland, and Charles Maloof, of Helen.

The Pine Mountain committee was named after A. A. Smith, who operated a concession, was indicted for alleged sale of liquor on state property. Smith's lease at Pine Mountain was cancelled. He still retains the lease at Vogel. The Pine Mountain committee has asked for bids on the concession at that park.

PEACHTREE LEASE TO YIELD $25,000

Building at 338 Peachtree Will Be Remodeled for Parts Service Firm.

Lease to the Parts Manufacturers' Service Corporation of a two-story building at 338 Peachtree street, N. E., was announced Friday by Haas & Dodd, realtors. The lease was for a six-year period, and will yield in aggregate rentals about $25,000. Dodd & Strother were lessors, and the deal was negotiated by W. H. Taylor Jr., of Haas & Dodd.

The building contains approximately 12,000 square feet of floor space. It will be extensively remodeled before it is occupied by the parts concern.

'GIMP'S' DAUGHTER DIES IN CHICAGO

Girl Witnessed Alderman, Etting Triangle Shooting.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Miss Edith Snyder, 22-year-old stepdaughter of Ruth Etting and a figure in the shooting afray in the singer's Los Angeles home last October 16, died in the St. Clair hotel today of heart disease.

Miss Snyder was the daughter of Martin (the Gimp) Snyder, who was sentenced to not more than 20 years in prison for attempting to murder Myrl Alderman, a pianist.

After Snyder's marriage to Miss Etting, she became the singer's secretary and was present when her father wounded Alderman. Snyder was acquitted of charges of attempting to murder her and her step-mother. During the trial Miss Etting and Alderman were married.

Arrangements for the funeral awaited word from Miss Etting.

Class Struggle?

There is something pathetic, although at the same time sinister, in the views of Harry Bridges, Australian-born labor leader of the west coast, as he expressed them at a hearing on deportation proceedings now being held in San Francisco.

Bridges asserted, in reply to questions from the chief of the government counsel, there is a "class struggle" now in progress in the United States and listed as the opposing forces "large corporate interests" on the one hand, and "the working people, the small business people and the small farmers and such as that" on the other.

There, once again, is the old bugaboo of "big business," the imaginative windmill at which all radicals tilt their lances, whether they operate from a Union square soapbox, from the headquarters of some union or from places high in the political system of the country.

Yet, despite all the fulminations, no one has yet been able to actually define the villain alleged to be inherent in "big business." Is it big business ownership? The owners today are the average people, the selfsame "working people, small business people, small farmers and such as that," who are placed in the opposing rank by Bridges. They, through the ownership of a few shares of stock, are the actual owners of "big business" today.

Is it big business management? The management consists of salaried executives, generally harassed, who are striving desperately to so meet their responsibilities, often in the face of apparently insurmountable difficulties, that the business may earn a small dividend for the same stockholders listed in the preceding paragraph.

And how would Bridges define "small business people?" No one was able to do this properly at the time when "small business" was supposed to be meeting in Washington and making the weight of its influence felt in the seats of government. At what point does a business move from the category of "small" into the baleful listing of "big?"

What Harry Bridges, and others like him, forgets is that this is America, where every man, no matter how humble, has the right to own his own share of stock in "big business;" where every man has opportunity, if he can accept it, to improve his lot in life by his own brains and his own effort; where there is no genuine "class struggle," because no individual is bound to any one class, save by his own choosing.

True, there are sporadic outbreaks of hot-headed violence in some labor disputes. As at the Green Mountain dam, a few are apt to be killed or injured when strikes are in progress and when either side resorts to force, or to the threat of force, to gain their ends.

It matters not which side, the employer or the labor union, appeals to force, whether through guns and tear gas or brickbats and clubs, injury and, sometimes, fatality, then becomes unavoidable.

But to admit this self-evident fact is by no means to concede that a vicious, hateful class struggle is in progress in America today.

If there is class consciousness it is the result of the penetration of such ideas as those espoused by Harry Bridges, the alleged Communist, and if there is class struggle it is the outgrowth of those foreign ideas, utterly repugnant to the principles of Americanism to which this nation gives its faith.

Another week or so of New York drouth and the natives will be piling into that aquacade for a look at water.

A gold rush is on in Mexico. To keep it regular, Americans should be sent out ahead, followed by the expropriators.

Goering tells the girls of the Reich that all German women must be beautiful. And, of course, no well-disciplined fraulein will murmer "Look who's talking."

If young Mr. Taft made the grade—just think—Ohio, the mother of presidents, would be a grandmother.

The great fairs overlooked a few wonders in organizing their midways. None has dug up a tobacco buyer who understands the tobacco auctioneer.

Another summer finds us arriving at the old conclusion: That a white suit is a suit that used to be white.

Economic Dynamite

Probably the most negiected factor in discussions of the European situation is the economic dynamite of vast armament expenditures. It is a serious question whether the continent can, without complete collapse, revert from a war economy to a peace economy. If it cannot, then the alternative is as serious as war, or must result in a war of desperation.

It is all well and good to say the nations of Europe do not want war. But it is another thing to consider how they can avoid it. Or to consider how long the mad race for superior arms can be run. Or to consider how long the rigid discipline of the German people can stand under a constantly tightening regimen.

An estimate has been made of the expenditures over the world for armaments, an estimate reaching the astounding total of $20,000,000,000 annually. This is 17½ billion dollars more than was spent annually on the eve of the World War; almost one-third the total national income of the United States; from 40 to 70 per cent of the respective national budgets. The United States, by contrast, spent only about 12 per cent during the last fiscal year.

Armaments cannot pay dividends. They are manufactured, but they are not sold. They cost money, but they do not earn money. The same applies to men under arms. They are removed from productive enterprise and the nations that pile up armaments and armed forces drain off their cost from the national wealth, a wealth that has very definite limitations, and which doesn't grow like cotton. When this drain reaches a saturation point, one of two things must occur. Either the situation explodes into war, or into uncontrollable inflation, either of which can be completely and utterly disastrous to this house of fantasy men call civilization.

The suggestion of a British statesman for a huge loan, permitting Germany to liquidate its armies and armaments, may yet prove the most sensible proposal to come from the melee of national terrors and prides now confounding the chancellories of the continent. Yet the suggestion was completely and thoroughly repudiated, both by the Chamberlain government and by the opposition, fearful of a new Chamberlain appeasement.

The real danger in Europe is not Hitler, per se, but what Hitler may be forced to do to delay an economic debacle. Man cannot eat his own flesh and live. Neither can man dissolve his wealth in armaments and keep the peace, external or internal.

Today, the liquidation of armaments can only be obtained at staggering costs. Tomorrow, it may be impossible.

The Second 100 Years

There would really be no use for the young, or the middle-aged, or even the so-called quite old, to attempt to look through the eyes of Mrs. Sarah H. Baker, of Geraldine, Ala. They would see one thing while she was seeing another, for the grand lady is 102 years old and has 421 direct descendants. One fleeting backward glance would revive more happiness, more sorrow, more joy, more grief, than the most vivid imagination could conjure up in the span of an ordinary life.

Her oldest boy is now, to her, a mere youngster of 81, while to most of those who would seek to see as she sees the youngest would be an old fellow of 62.

Since starting on the second century of her life—really, who can say with authority that the first 100 years are always the hardest?—she has pieced and sewn together 18 quilts without the aid of eye glasses. And with every stitch, with every thrust of the needle, with every drawing through of the thread, has come the remembrance of tears over inconsequential things, of generations of broken dolls, of death on the field of battle, of victory, of defeat, of crusaders — moral, political, religious — who would have made over the world under the exigencies of the moment.

How she must chuckle to herself over the many seemingly tremendous, unsolvable human problems which solved themselves then, as she knows they will solve themselves now, with the passing of enough time. Enough time! There's the rub. For so few, like Mrs. Baker, have sufficient time to solve their problems or see them solved or to attain that distant perspective where problems cease to be problems.

An 18-year-old heiress to millions is told to choose between them and a crooning sax player. If she is sweet 18, a thing like this takes thought.

A learned court has ruled that the doctors are no monopoly, but we wonder. Who's writing all the best sellers, while authors starve?

Editorial of the Day

TO OUTLAW LABOR SPYING.

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

A lot of dirty practices were uncovered by the La Follette Civil Liberties committee. None ranked lower, however, than those which certain employers in industry used to harass and block organized labor in its attempt to achieve freedom in collective bargaining. During the senatorial hearings, shocking disclosures of labor spies, planted stool pigeons, professional strike breakers, criminal strike guards and the arms traffic in labor trouble were in the news day after day.

All this needs to be remembered as we read that the senate labor committee has recommended the enactment of a law to bar "malignant labor practices." Legislation asked would not only outlaw the interstate transportation of goods produced in the shadow of espionage and strike-breaking by thugs, it would prohibit the government from entering into contracts with companies using such practices.

This proposal is aimed at the elimination of a hangover from feudalism. Men have a right to work without the fear that the fellow at the next bench is planted there to carry tales to the foreman. They have the right to strike against just grievances without the threat that their places will be taken by professional thugs and gunmen, imported to break the strike. They have a right to protection by the government against a vicious trade in bombs, sawed-off shotguns and submachine guns.

A congressional investigation serves only part of its purpose when it reveals conditions which need to be corrected. Correction must follow. The labor committee has made a recommendation which congress should be prompt in accepting.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

SERIOUS SITUATION WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The seriousness of the Far Eastern situation, which is being almost frivolously ignored, is clear from the situation's simple logic. The administration is determined to discipline the Japanese if they do not behave. Not the least inclination to behave has been shown by the Japanese. And the only means of discipline open to this country are semi-warlike measures.

In the backwash of denunciation of the Japanese commercial treaty, the grimness of the State Department's mood has become startlingly apparent. The department, undoubtedly egged on by the White House and encouraged by favorable public opinion, has at last made up its mind to take no more nonsense—the nonsense in question being the Japanese drive against the foreign concessions and all foreign rights in China.

Meanwhile Japanese assaults on the foreign concessions have been, if anything, intensified, since denunciation of the commercial treaty, word has reached this country of a series of incidents along the usual pattern, by which the Japanese hope to crowd every one but themselves off Chinese soil. What is more, the Japanese demands in the Tientsin negotiation are directly threatening to the whole principle of the foreign concessions. For one thing, the Japanese ask for the Chinese silver in the British banks at Tientsin. If they get the 40,000,000 odd Chinese dollars in Tientsin, they will have an excuse for requesting the treasure of 10 times that amount in the concessions at Shanghai.

ONE, TWO, THREE The real question at issue, of course, is not whether or no the foreign concession rights will be maintained, but whether or no the Japanese shall be allowed to build a huge eastern empire. The drive against the concessions is merely an incident of empire building. It is the first incident, however, which gives this country a real excuse to put its oar in. And it is obvious that the American policy is now to put the most substantial obstacles in Japan's way.

If Japanese tactics should change, or if American public opinion should become nervous, the new policy would certainly be modified. Otherwise, however, there seems to be only one way out.

That way is the disciplinary action which the State Department is already mulling over. It can take the forms of (1) an empty gesture, such as recall of the American ambassador at Tokyo, or (2) a mild economic reprimand such as the imposition of countervailing duties on Japanese goods, or (3) an absolute embargo on exports to and imports from Japan. Empty gestures are always foolish. Countervailing duties are virtually worthless in the case of Japan, since the great bulk of our Japanese imports is raw silk, and raw silk is on the free list. Thus the only effective disciplinary action is the embargo, which has already been lightly talked of as "possible."

IMMOVABLE, IRRESISTIBLE In the opinion of Far Eastern experts, an embargo is not "possible" but probable, and what is more, may well be taken by the Japanese as a warlike act. In truth, it is not hard to find shrewd and well-informed men who will tell you that this country is presently heading for war with Japan.

While such predictions may be alarmist, the embargo would certainly have grave results. Japan could not take it calmly, for she depends directly on this country for huge percentages of the oil, scrap iron and cotton she so desperately needs for her Chinese adventure. She is virtually denuded of foreign exchange, being reduced to day-to-day dependence on profits on exports. Having no ready money, it will be extremely difficult for the Japanese to lay in reserve supplies of the commodities from which an embargo would cut them off. At the same time, stoppage of this country's purchases from Japan would greatly reduce Japan's vital cash income.

It has already been suggested that as soon as America proclaimed an anti-Japanese embargo, the Japanese would seize the oil-producing territories in the Netherlands East Indies. This would naturally inflame matters still further, perhaps to a point where the United States and England would attempt the much-discussed long-distance blockade at Panama and the straits of Singapore. Altogether, affairs in the Far East are moving closer and closer to the immovable object and irresistible force stage. When that stage is reached, an explosion must be expected.

The old men tell strange stories
Of days of long ago,
But youth is deaf and will not learn
The truths the old men know.

A Poor Thing, But Mine Own.

Ever since this column began, quite some years ago now, it has carried at its top a little rhyme, in italic type. Most of these rhymes have been worthless sort of things, though on rare occasions something fairly good has appeared.

But they have served their turn, by giving a distinctive typographic appearance to the column, anyway.

Strange as it may seem to others, there are some readers who write in and daringly declare they like that rhyme or the other. Then there are correspondents who protest and declare the jingles spoil a column they otherwise enjoy. And, of course, there are lots of folks, must be, who just don't like the column at all, prose or verse. If any columnist could please everyone he would be more than human.

Occasionally, someone asks where those little rhymes come from. From what source are they culled. (A cull, you know, is something far from perfect.)

The truth is, which should be self-evident, that they are original. They must be. They aren't good enough to be quoted, most of them.

"A poor thing, but mine own."

No Quotations, Uncredited.

Regardless of how faulty any may be, it seems to me far better to write something of one's own, original, than to quote from any source, no matter how great or inspired. Quotations may be more or less apt, but they serve chiefly but to indicate the erudition of the quoter. There is no such desire, here. If ever another's verse is used, rest assured the outside authorship will be credited.

Anyway, the verses don't, usually, have anything to do with the context which follows. They are there, as stated, merely as a sort of typographic trademark, something different from most others. No one has to read 'em. If you, today reading this, happen to be one of those who, with entirely justifiable reason, think them an irritation and a nuisance, you don't have to read. Just skip it. Or, if you prefer, skip the entire column, in future. Pardon, for the time you have consumed reading thus far.

Baseball And Traveling.

If anyone should, perchance, write to us while we are in England, next month, on that eagerly awaited vacation, I wish they'd make mention of the status of the Southern league race and how the Crackers are coming along.

For I well remember, in 1925, how impossible it proved to find any such reports in the papers available.

Occasionally, in a New York paper, there would be an agate item at the bottom of some forgotten column, giving the previous day's results of Southern league games. But without mention of league standing, and so forth.

Of course, no one on the ship crossing the Atlantic knew or cared. A daily paper was published on board, with skeletonized world news by radio, but nary a mention of such an inconspicuous matter as the Southern Baseball Association.

In England, naturally, it was rare to find a line even about the major leagues. I did receive a few Constitutions, mailed by thoughtful friends in the office, or at home. And eagerly turned to see how that Cracker team of 1925 was faring.

I reached New York, on the journey home, in late October, that year, and found out, through accidental meeting with a fellow Atlantan on Seventh avenue, that the Crackers had won the pennant.

Of course, this time, the return won't be so late. We'll be home again about September 15. But I should like to hear, in the meantime, an occasional report on the league standing so I can guess at the chances of Paul Richards and his cohorts once again winning pennant, play-off and Dixie series.

Thanks.

India To Count People.

Preparations for taking the first Indian census since inauguration of provincial autonomy are now well advanced, although the census is not expected to be taken until 1941.

Thorough-going preparations are necessary for two reasons: The last census, on February 26, 1931, gave the population as 352,837,778, a fifth of the world's people; and the majority of Indians are illiterate and must be approached verbally.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Kitchen Trouble NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—George Spelvin, American, and his ever-loving have been having the devil's own time with old Hattie, the pot walloper who has been working around their bower these last 15 years or so. Hattie joined a housemaids' union, and now she goes around the flat muttering dirty cracks about George and his old lady, and if they are late for dinner old Hat will yank off her apron at quitting time and leave them in mid-air. They can't fire her; they can't say aye, yes or no to her, and they can't even go out in their own kitchen and wrestle the rest of the meal together and serve themselves, because they are executives in the meaning of the act. Only union people are allowed to do Hattie's work.

The Spelvins don't really rate a hired girl at all, because his pay is 'way down and there are only he and his old lady at home. Ella—that's the daughter—she got married, and young George is in the navy. Spelvin thought of giving Hattie the wind back in 1931 when he was out of a job himself, but she was a pathetic old bag in a way, and he kept her on because she had nowhere to go. She worked any old hours at all, and Mrs. Spelvin always gave a hand with things around, but, nevertheless, old Hat put in plenty of hours. It just never occurred to the Spelvins that such help had the same rights and aspirations as other labor.

George Tried To Stall Mr. Spelvin was the surprisedest guy you ever saw when a union delegate called and demanded that George sign a contract with Hattie through him as bargaining agent. George tried to stall, but the bargaining agent said, "Have it your own way, but if you don't sign we will get you fired from your own job."

"You and who else?" George said. "Consolidated Widget wouldn't fire George Spelvin, the average American, for resisting dictation in his private life."

"Well, how long do you think Consolidated is going to keep you after we declare a nation-wide boycott on their widgets for employing an enemy of labor?" the guy said.

George saw the guy had him, so he signed for a year. He raised Hattie's pay from 8 bucks to 12, gave her a five-day 40-hour week, agreed that she musn't touch the washing any more, as that work belongs to the laundry workers' union, and consented to a written stipulation that she couldn't be fired for reasons of economy, even if he should lose his own job, although Hattie has more than $3,000 in the savings bank and the Spelvins haven't got a dime, except from week to week. He even hocked his insurance back in the panic, and now he can't get any on account of something about his liver. He can't fire her for poking out her lip or putting on the glare every time they ask her to do anything, and it drives them near nuts to go out in the kitchen and read bulletins which old Hat addresses to herself calling the Spelvins all kinds of louses and gyps. All the time she mutters about how it would be a good idea if somebody should put poison in a certain party's soup, but she doesn't come right out and say what party or say she is going to do it herself, so they can't even can old Hat for that. It would be an invasion of her freedom of speech.

Spoke Out Of Order A couple of weeks ago George got sentimental and said, "Hattie, what for do you want to be acting like this on account of a union when we been just like a family together all these years."

Well, whammo, two days later he gets cited and old Hat is a witness that he tried to intimidate her out of the union. So George said, "This board has no jurisdiction, as my bower is not interstate commerce," but the guy knocked his ears down by saying it was interstate commerce to cook his meals and make his bed, because he required food and repose to manufacture widgets, which are sold in interstate commerce. That night old Hat got drunk as a fool and held a victory parade in front of the Spelvins' little flat, with a lot of other hired girls, and somebody heaved a gin bottle through a window. It took a divot out of George's scalp, but the union said he did it himself to discredit labor.

George was thinking he could stand it for a year and then he would can old Hat by just refusing to renew the contract. It would cost him 15 weeks' pay at $12 a week in dismissal money, but he figured he could rustle it up somehow and thought it would be worth it. But a lawyer friend tells him if he cans old Hattie the union will send someone 10 times worse and he can't just abolish the job and let his old lady do the work, because that would make it a scab shop, and the union would boycott Consolidated Widget and get him fired and make it impossible for him to get a job anywhere else.

George Spelvin and his old lady figure that they are stuck for life with an old she-devil going around their own bower calling them louses under government auspices, and it makes them sad. They figure they are average Americans, and they never did anything to the government ,or old Hattie, either, for that matter.

In Ithaca, N. Y., firemen blame a sparrow for a fire which broke out in a second-floor sleeping porch at the home of W. S. Wolf.

They said the sparrow apparently picked up a live cigarete butt and carried it home as material for a nest it was building inside a porch partition.

Cut Cost of Crime.

At Warsaw, N. Y., Wyoming county's prison farm no longer is a taxpayers' headache.

Sheriff Lewis Spring started a farm system. Three years ago it cost Wyoming county $1 daily per person sentenced. Now the prisoners earn their keep, plus a little extra from selling surplus crops of the 227-acre farm.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

THE CHURCH AND FOOD Zion's Herald, century-old Methodist publication, has announced a program which deserves more circulation than the Zion Herald can give it. A copy should be placed before the menu man of every civic club, chamber of commerce and "booster club" in this land of the free and the home of the brave. This program should not be confined to churches.

"Startling indeed would be the list of the souls which have been damned by bad cooking," says the Herald. Churches and homes, says the Herald, are waging "an all but losing fight with restaurants for the souls of men."

"Men are not interested in being at home or eating at home because of half-cooked food, tough meats, poorly seasoned vegetables, soggy pies and doctored puddings.

"Nor are churches themselves free from this evil. All too often the 'church social' or men's club 'banquet' . . . has driven down the spiritual thermometer of professing Christians below zero.

"Food has something to do with the growth and progress of the inner life. Cooks have a responsibility, the proportions of which they scarcely realize," concludes the Herald.

This is truth worth remembering. Dr. Spencer J. McCallie was wont to tell his pupils, when he came to a truth he wished them to remember: "I wish I could have that printed on a mallet and then hit you in the head with the mallet."

It would be very desirable to have those in charge of the average club luncheon menu hit in the head with a mallet on which, heavily engraved, was the editorial from Zion's Herald.

THE FAITHFUL GREEN PEA Often, contemplating a club luncheon plate, I have wondered what would happen to club luncheons if the pea crop, the green pea crop, were to fail.

He is the yoeman, the stout fellow, the right arm of the menu-makers for civic and church club luncheons and suppers. The menu-maker is never in doubt. He closes his eyes and says,

"Let's see. We'll have green peas and—"

I have nothing against the green pea. I like him. But now and then, on looking down at the small pile of green peas on the plate, I have said to myself, "Oh, thou faithful unto death. Better thou had not been harvested."

Then, there is the fruit cocktail. The fruit cocktail is an excellent dish. But it lacks, because of its very variety—variety. Yet, inevitably, there it is with the small shred of maraschino cherry looking up, quite gaily, saying, "Hello, there, here I am again."

The rolls almost always are cold. In fact, the charge might have been made by Zion's Herald that the average luncheon or supper was much like the church at Thessionica, which was neither hot nor cold, but lukewarm. And by the time the invocation has been said and one verse of "America" sung, alas and alack, the lukewarmness has fled and there remaineth only cold.

There is much to be said about the subject. The dessert, usually a heavy pie, tops off what usually is a luncheon sustaining the position of Zion's Herald . . . that is, it has not done the inner man any good and has not added one inch to his spiritual well-being.

THE BICARBONATE TRIO I suppose it was just a co-incident but one morning in our shop there were three men who met at the corner soda fountain, each demanding a serving of bicarbonate of soda.

One had been to a cocktail party the night before.

Another had been to a church supper for the men's class.

The other had attended the ladies' night meeting of his civic club.

There really ought to be some sort of law making it at least a misdemeanor incorrectly to use the word "banquet." The definition of the word implies a rich or sumptuous feast.

Most assuredly it does not mean a fruit cocktail, a cold chop, my old friend, the green peas, and some cold au-gratin potatoes.

I think I can qualify as an expert on food served to the church people and the business club members. As an expert, I would say that the Madison (Ga.) Kiwanians eat the best food of any club, church or civic, in the state. Their food is prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. Ben Gay at the college just out of town. Until some other club lifts the honor the Madison club must hold the championship.

Be that as it may, it generally will be admitted that Zion's Herald has come through with a great attack in behalf of the common man.

Maybe it is true, as the editor says, that home life is disappearing because of the food on the table and not because Papa and Mamma are confirmed old hellers who step out to the movies or to dances on Saturday night.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad To His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

I know a little boy named Jackie who personifies the spirit that made America. When he was old enough to be steady on his pins, he walked with a swagger—back flat, chest out, feet lifted with the arrogance of the goose-step. If anybody tried to lead him by the hand, he protested and pulled away in quick resentment. It wasn't the hand-holding that offended him, for I could fool him by saying: "Jackie, I'm getting old. What about leading me?" Then he took my finger in proud contentment. All he desired was his manly independence and freedom.

You know that feeling, also, and all of your friends share it; for you resent restrictions and feel shamed when you are "bossed."

All of this adds up to the fact that freedom is the natural state of man, as of other animals. It is against nature for one man to be another's master. And when nature is violated, in this as in other matters, the result is disaster.

If anybody doubts it, he has only to read the history of our race.

Our modern era, the way historians figure it, began about 2500 years ago. And virtually all of the progress achieved in that time was made in the last 150 years.

For over 2,300 years our race stood still; losing ground and regaining it, but never advancing. Generation after generation, century after century, people did the same things; thought the same things; lived and died in the same neighborhood.

The favored few—the priests and nobles and well-born—were the masters. They got all they desired without working, and therefore lacked the "divine discontent" required for progress.

The common people were virtual slaves, without power to do anything but obey. They learned nothing except by word of mouth. Ignorant, ragged, verminous, degraded, they lived in kennels and toiled for masters who kept them near starvation. They never dreamed that progress or change was possible.

Progress began with liberty. When men gained the right to go and come at will—to adventure and learn and enjoy the fruits of his own labor—to earn and keep every prize his wits and industry could deserve—he gained the spirit of proud independence and self-reliance and hope and ambition that quickly built a new world.

There is no limit to the wonders free men will do, but slaves have no incentive to do anything.

Now much of the world is returning to the dark ages, and the masters who have enslaved other races are scheming to enslave us. They don't say: "Come and be slaves." They try to trick young and old by shrewd promises of security and order and glory.

Better fight to keep the freedom you have. Once it is gone, you'll take orders from a boss forever,

Love,

DAD.

GOOD MORNING
By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

ELIJAH.

Sunday's lesson I Kings, 18th chapter, brings us to consider once again one of the glorious personalities in all history, described by the lesson committee as a man of great courage. Of course, this particular lesson can only briefly review a life so encompassing as this mighty prophet of God.

We know very little of his background. It is merely stated that he was a Tishbite of the inhabitants of Gilead. He has been described as a tall man of sinewy body, thin and strong, and of great physical endurance. He is said to have worn long hair, and that he appeared always in simple tunic, held about him by a belt of hide; over his tunic he wore a mantle or cape of sheepskin. Glowing zeal, dauntlessness of soul, and unbending condemnation of iniquity are the chief characteristics of Elijah.

He appears in the reign of Ahab, a wicked King, who married Jezebel of Tyre. He told ahab of the impending punishment which would come to the people because of their sin. Retreating to the ravines of Cherith, he awaited the fulfillment of God's message, sustained by miraculous provisions from the Lord. Sought by Ahab and Jezebel, Elijah moved quietly among the people, speaking to them of God, and speaking to God for them.

The story of the miracle in the widow's house, where for two years the supply of food was ample to meet their needs, is but one of the many blessings that attended those who kept near to Elijah.

And when the time was fulfilled that God would make manifest His power, Elijah returned to the land of Israel and met Ahab in the vicinity of the capital city. "It it thou, thou troubler of Israel?" angrily growled Ahab. To which question Elijah made bold answer that it was the sin of the king and his heathen wife and many others, who, having entered into idolatory, were responsible for the famine and suffering.

Commanding the King to assemble with the people and false prophets on Mount Carmel, Elijah challenged the prophets of the false gods, and wrought one of the mighty triumphs of faith as he called down the fire upon the altar, which had been soaked in water.

Note the prayer of Elijah at Carmel—that it might be made known that Jehovah is the God of Israel, that Elijah is His servant, and that his work was directed of God. The object of his prayer and the miracle that followed was to bring Israel back to God. Today, as in the days of Elijah, we must choose between the true God and false gods.

TVA ORDER FORBIDS 'RECKLESS BOATING'

NORRIS, Tenn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority took a little time off from power and policy problems today to put its foot down on reckless boating.

within the concession, which has been under Japanese blockade since June 14.

Meanwhile in Tokyo a high government official accused the United States and Great Britain today of joint pressure on Japan and declared "events are forcing" Japan toward a military alliance with Germany and Italy.

Japanese meanwhile greeted with doubt and perplexity British Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration British might find it necessary "in certain circumstances" to send a fleet to the Far East.

Comment was guarded but one naval officer said Britain "might send a few ships as a gesture," but it was unlikely she would do more because of the unsettled outlook for Europe.

It was stated that conclusion of a German-Italian-Japanese pact might come at any moment though ignorance was professed concerning the meeting in Italy of the Japanese envoys to Rome and Berlin, Toshio Shiratori and Lieutenant General Hiroshi Oshima.

(Rome dispatches said the ambassadors had cabled a detailed report to Tokyo after a two-day conference in which Stefani—official Italian news agency—said they declared "the subject of their meeting was the question of the Tokyo government's adherence to the Italian-German alliance of steel.")

Britain Warns Japan.

In London Prime Minister Chamberlain wound up parliament for the summer today with a blunt warning to Japan that Britain might find it necessary "in certain circumstances" to send a fleet to the Far East.

He did not indicate what these circumstances were, but said he hoped no one would think it was "absolutely out of the question for such circumstances to arise."

"I do not say that as a threat," he declared, "but only as a warning."

The speech was one of the most pointed he made during the stormy session of parliament which began November 8, 1938, and which saw him discard his so-called "appeasement" policy for building up the British-French front.

Parliament will not reassemble until October 3 unless an emergency arises.

Chamberlain said that some of the things that were happening to British subjects in North China made his "blood boil," but that he would try to show "patience and to exercise reasonable moderation."

"Let us not forget," the prime minister told the house of commons, "that we have graver and nearer problems to consider in the course of the next few months and we must conserve our forces to meet any emergency that may arise."

France Steps In.

In the meantime, France stepped into the British-Japanese negotiations for settlement of China issues with a notice to Tokyo today that French interests were "linked" with those of Britain.

The foreign ministry disclosed that Charles Arsene Henry, French ambasador to Tokyo, had visited the Japanese foreign office to point out formally the unity of French and British interests in the Orient.

He was understood to have expressed French readiness to take part in the British-Japanese talks, converting the Tokyo conference into a three-power parley.

In Moscow the Soviet government tonight announced a one-year extension of the United States-Russian trade agreement under which the latter expressed its intention of increasing purchases of American goods beyond a minimum of $40,000,000 a year.

The extension was to August 6, 1940. In return for the guaranteed Soviet purchases the United States government gives Russian imports benefits of the tariff and other concessions in the reciprocal trade treaties signed with a number of other nations.

'Buffalo Bill' on List Banned by Fascists

ROME, Italy, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The works of many famous writers, including many Jews, and such books as the Nick Carter series, "Life and Adventures of Buffalo Bill" and Ludwig's "Lincoln" are on a list condemned officially today as unsuited to the Fascist spirit.

Booksellers and librarians received today the list which included books that have been seized and destroyed and others of which the sale has been forbidden.

The condemned authors included Casanova, Balzac, Bocaccio, Rabelais, Voltaire, Poe, Edgar Wallace, Thomas Mann, Arnold Zweig, Emil Ludwig, H. G. Wells, Franz Werfel, Robert Graves, Machiavelli, Jacob Wasserman, Agatha Christie, George Sande, Axel Munthe and Arthur Schnitzler.

GOVERNOR GRANTS RESPITE TO HOWARD

Ex-Deputy Given Time To Present Evidence for Parole in Bribery Case.

Governor Rivers yesterday granted a 30-day respite to Gus H. Howard Jr., former Fulton county deputy sheriff, who is under sentence to serve five 12-month terms for bribery.

The respite was granted on Howard's request that he be given more time to present evidence to the pardon and parole commission in support of his plea that he be allowed to serve the sentences on parole. The commission held a hearing on the application several weeks ago but has not announced a decision.

Young Howard is a son of former Judge G. H. Howard. He was convicted on five counts of accepting bribes from alleged liquor dealers.

Among nominations for new ranking made Thursday by President Roosevelt was that of Colonel Bruce Magruder, of Fort Benning, Ga., to be brigadier general.

BAPTISTS TO MEET.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 4.—The Troup County Baptist Sunday School Asssociation will meet Sunday afternoon at East LaGrange Baptist church, with representatives from 19 Baptist churches attending.

BURGLARS OBLIGE BY SWEEPING UP, LEAVING 'PRINTS'

This is a story of "gentlemen burglars."

The intruders early yesterday entered the Schneider & Son Jewelry Company, 109 Peachtree street, N. E., after carefully removing the glass skylight. They swept up the scattered putty, then took only half the money in the cash register, leaving $5. The safe was left untouched, but the intruders did take several pieces of jewelry from the show case, then carefully replaced the dust covers.

They swept the floor, cleaned the wall and replaced the skylight. But the most gentlemanly thoughtfulness of all, police said, was: the burglars left their fingerprints on the show case.

The Rev. John Moore Walker will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son. Pallbearers will be Ward Foote, W. C. Blandford Jr., O. P. Cawthon, G. A. Austin, J. L. Riley Jr. and Norman Ramsey.

SPECIAL ELECTION FOR TROUP SEEN

County To Choose Morgan Successor.

A special election writ for Troup county to choose a state representative is expected to be issued soon by Governor Rivers, since Lewis Render Morgan, 26-year-old lawyer and one of Troup's three representatives in the house, resigned to become secretary to Georgia's new representative in congress, A. Sidney Camp, of Newnan. Troup is one of the eight counties in Georgia having three representatives.

Penelope Stops for Lunch on Her Way To Bath and Talks Quietly With Kim

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When Derek Challoner, stodgy landowner, sees dainty Stella Dawson playing a small part in a suburban London theater he forgets his vow not to marry again. Imposing Narrow Lane Hall depresses his young bride, but she is happy after her baby is born until the Challoner tradition puts Elizabeth in charge of nurse, then governess. Seven unhappy years make the open adoration of impecunious Pip Hulbert welcome, there is a divorce and Derek refuses to let her have Betty when she marries Pip. Betty pines and the doctor tells Derek she will die if separated from her mother. When Elizabeth is 16 Pip is killed in an accident and Stella is inconsolable. Elizabeth meets Kim Lawless when she trespasses in his wook to pick primroses and he tells her he hopes she comes again. Derek dies leaving half his wealth to Elizabeth if she quits her mother and her step-sister. Penelope can't understand her decision to remain with her mother. Penelope tells her she was to marry Lawless but he broke the engagement. Stella dies and Elizabeth lives with Penelope and their Aunt Thornley. She meets Kim at the Selbys' dance and then at their place in Somerset, and when Penelope's illness in Paris calls her away he tells her he loves her. Penelope calls for Kim in her delirium. She recovers but has lost her singing voice. Roxy Selby repeats to Elizabeth the gossip that Kim and Penelope were secretly married, Penelope shows her a wedding ring, and Elizabeth avoids Kim. While Elizabeth is visiting the Selbys, Barbara announces that he is coming. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

She lowered her voice. "Don't let's wake the parents. Take off your shoes, Elizabeth; the stairs creak so.

Elizabeth obeyed and gathered up the folds of her long skirt.

"Good night, everybody," she whispered.

"I'll be up in a minute," Barbara said.

Elizabeth went slowly upstairs and along the dark corridor to her room. The big house seemed very still and deserted, and when suddenly the mournful howl of a dog broke the silence, she started and put her hand to her heart.

Bingo! She looked fearfully over her shoulder, as if expecting to see the ghostly hound of which Roy had told her following her, and then, with a little shrug, she went on her way, realizing that it was probably only a farmer's dog somewhere out in the night, baying at the moon.

But as she reached her door, she glanced back once again just as Kim Lawless reached the top of the staircase.

They both stood still, with the long, moonlit corridor between them, and it seemed to Elizabeth that she counted each passing second by her heart-beats.

One—two—three. While at the back of her mind she was thinking mechanically, "Why don't I go into my room? Why do I stand here, just looking at him? What's the use? What's the use? What's the use?" Till at last the echoing words seemed to have no sense in them at all.

And then somewhere in the house a clock began to strike the hour.

One, two, three, four—the deep tones went booming through the silence, and each one seemed to take an eternity to die away, as if it were reluctant to mark the passing of yet another wasted moment. And then, up the stairs, Barbara came running in her stockinged feet.

She paused with a hand on the banister rail, looking from Kim to Elizabeth with quick suspicion, though she only said lightly:

"Hullo! Are you two still moongazing?"

Then, as Elizabeth's power of action returned and, with stiff fingers, she opened her door, Barbara said in a stage whisper:

"Sleep late, if you like. No hurry to get up."

Elizabeth closed the door behind her, and, slipping out of her frock, laid it across a chair.

Yes, the hem was quite spoiled—as things always were by clumsy handling.

"My clumsy handling has spoiled things, too," Elizabeth thought dully. And for the first time a doubt crept into her troubled mind.

"Never judge too hastily. Make quite sure first."

That was one of the unforgettable things her darling mother had said in the far-away days gone beyond recall. For an instant, Elizabeth's sensitive face quivered as if pain, long since drugged into numbness, was stirring to life again, and she seemed to see her mother's face, smiling and radiant as it had been before tragedy stalked across her life—and then, by some queer wist of the imagination, Kim Lawless—as he had looked that evening when he said, "I told you once that I loved you."

Odd that though he and her mother had never met, they should seem for the moment to be part and parcel of each other.

"Perhaps it's because I love them both," Elizabeth thought, and her heart was filled with tears which she dared not shed.

She was still in a deep sleep when quite late the following morning Barbara came rapping on the door.

"Betty, are you awake? Betty!"

Elizabeth started up, dazed and bewildered.

"Yes—what is it? Oh, it's you!" She sank back on her pillow as Barbara burst into the room.

"Who do you think has come to lunch?" she demanded, and there was a sort of antagonism in her voice. She jerked back the curtains, and Elizabeth asked in confusion what time it was for Barbara was dressed and had obviously been out.

"Time? It's past 12—but mother said we weren't to disturb you; only when Miss Thornley appeared—"

Elizabeth was wide awake now.

"Aunt Thornley!" she gasped. "Why—whatever—"

Barbara shrugged her shoulders.

"She's brought Penelope, too," she explained dryly. "Of course, they couldn't have known that Kim was here, could they? Miss Thornley says they are on their way to Bath and, as they were near, they thought they would call in."

Elizabeth was out of bed and scrambling into her dressing gown. Penelope too!

"I'll get dressed at once. Why didn't you wake me before?" She thrust her feet into little blue bedroom slippers. "Have she and Mr. Lawless met?" she asked falteringly.

Barbara nodded.

"Oh, yes, as cool as you please—just shook hands and said what a lovely day it was. Mother's taken Miss Thornley to see the garden, and I had to leave the others for a moment to come and tell you. Do hurry up."

"I won't be a minute."

Penelope and Kim! Elizabeth's unsteady hands bungled so much with her toilet that it was nearly half an hour before she went downstairs but she could find only Mr. Selby who was calmly reading his paper in the lounge. He looked at her kindly.

"Quite rested?" he asked, and then, as she nodded: "Everyone is in the garden."

"Oh—I'll go and find them."

In the garden! Perhaps Kim had taken Penelope to see the moss-grown sundial and the weeping Cupid which crouched at its base.

"Love makes time pass away—Time makes love pass away."

But when she came across them they were standing very quietly side by side admiring the roses, and she heard Penelope say:

"You had some like these in the garden at Shere, didn't you, Kim?"

Shere! It was there that Elizabeth had first met Kim when she had been stealing his primroses.

Wasn't she to be allowed one memory to herself without it being shared by Penelope? She thought, cynically, that this must be how a man's second wife felt—that the woman whose place she had filled was always close by, perhaps looking on with a slightly pitying smile, and thinking: "All this was mine once. It's nothing new. You're only walking in my footsteps."

"Hullo, Penelope!" she said hesitatingly.

Penelope looked at her calmly.

"Hullo. I heard you were in bed. I suppose you have been burning the midnight oil, as usual?"

"We were rather late," Elizabeth admitted. She glanced at Lawless and he met her eyes with grim accusation.

"They've asked us to lunch," Penelope was saying. "We were on our way to Bath. Aunt Thornley seems to imagine that the waters will be beneficial." She turned abruptly to the man beside her. Do you remember that dreary week-end we spent with the Chandlers at Bath? How thankful we were when Monday morning came?"

"I remember."

"It must be nearly two years ago," Penelope went on. "Almost a lifetime, isn't it?"

How can she! Elizabeth thought with passionate resentment, and she felt as if she were an onlooker, watching while someone deliberately dragged something which was sick and dying into the glaring sunlight.

"Didn't Penelope care any more, Elizabeth asked herself as her sister and Kim talked on quietly there in the garden. She looked quite serene and undisturbed. Which, then, was the real Penelope? The girl who had sobbed and cried for Kim during those dreadful days in Paris; or this self-composed, slightly cynical young woman?

She looks much older, Elizabeth thought with compassion—and she wondered why she had not noticed the change in her sister before. She looks as if a the best of her has burned itself out and just left an empty shell.

Mrs. Selby and Miss Thornley joined them and they returned to the house, Kim and Penelope walking together.

Mrs. Selby stopped to speak to one of the gardeners and then Miss Thornley said in an undertone, to Elizabeth:

"I had no idea Kim was here. It's rather awkward, but you haven't mentioned him in any of your letters."

Her eyes followed the figure of her elder niece. "Perhaps—what do you think, Elizabeth? They may make it up, after all."

"Perhaps," Elizabeth said, with an effort.

"It's perfectly vile," Barbara whispered to Elizabeth as they went in to lunch. "I don't think Penelope should have stayed when she found that Kim was here."

"Oh, but why?" Elizabeth asked. "It's—all over—isn't it?"

STRIKE VIOLENCE QUIZ BRINGS PLEA FOR MORE POLICE

Committee Recommends Employment of 30 Regulars After Hearing Rogers' Pros and Cons.

City council's police committee last night asked for 30 more regular policemen after hearing explanations from Rogers Stores how acts of violence had forced the special employment of 28 supernumerary city policemen during the present strike and from labor leaders a denunciation of such private employment as being prejudicial to justice and to the cause of labor.

The committee voted a request for the additions which will go to the finance committee. Councilmen Hester and Marler offered it and it passed unanimously.

The hearing, held at the police headquarters, drew about 100 spectators. Among those to appear were Scott Allen, president of the company, and his attorney, Clem Powers; Dewey L. Johnson, president, and Albert Gossett, vice president, of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; F. H. Key, of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Police Chief Hornsby, and W. C. Kendrick, of the Atlanta Federation.

Violence Cited.

"Has there been much trouble?" Mayor Hartsfield inquired of Hornsby at one point.

"Yes," was the reply, "lots of it."

"What was its nature?"

"Windows have been broken, trucks have been sabotaged and employes have been beaten."

Hornsby quoted from the police file of 38 instances of violence between July 15, when the strike began, and July 29. The file included six cases involving "aggravated assault."

Defines Labor's Stand.

President Johnson defined labor's position in these words:

"We have no objection to policemen being furnished for protection in labor controversies. We do object, however, to city policemen being hired out by private employers."

Kendrick termed the practice "a dangerous precedent" and said it was logical that someone engaged in illegal pursuits might use the device to protect himself against arrest.

Violence Described.

Reading from a statement which outlined the history of the strike, Attorney Powers described the violence in these words:

"Since the strike was called, some 45 of our store windows have been smashed; many of our men who remained at work have been subjected to threats and insults; gasoline has been poured over some of our produce; gasoline lines on some of our trucks have been cut, and disorders approaching near-riots occurred in front of some of our stores; and it was apparent to us that more serious violence might occur, unless we were afforded adequate police protection.

"We were advised, however, that although we are a substantial taxpayer, the city was unable to furnish to us or to our employes, at its expense, the required protection. An arrangement has now been worked out so that as of today the city is furnishing us 12 regular police officers, and we are employing, at our expense, 28 additional men from the chief's supernumerary list. Thirteen of these men are used to protect our trucks and drivers, and the remainder—in three shifts—police the stores and warehouse.

"They are all under the control of the police department and take their orders from it. None of them are in any sense strike breakers, and the sole purpose of their use is to prevent disorders and violence."

Assails Use of Police.

The labor spokesmen referred to findings of the LaFollette senate committee on civil liberties which "condemns as a menace to public peace the use of private policemen in labor-management controversies," and asserts that "it gives employers an unfair advantage."

Mr. Kendrick declared: "We are not talking about the Rogers strike but about the practice of city policemen hiring themselves out to private individuals. The city should provide adequate protection."

It was charged by Mr. Key that "city policemen are taking city gasoline and putting it into private automobiles for strike-breaking purposes."

Reads Statement.

Discussing the background of the strike and its present status, the statement read by Attorney Powers said:

"Almost all of the truck drivers and a substantial majority of the warehousemen are out. Of these 31 are whites and 97 are negroes. Of the approximately 140 meat cutters 16—or about 10 per cent—are out; of the approximately 450 other store employes about 11—or less than 3 per cent—are out; and not a single bakery worker has left his job. Summarizing: The total of all those who are away from their jobs is approximately 150 out of a total of about 750—or some 20 per cent. We do not know how many of them are members of the union. Nevertheless, taking the number who responded to the strike call as indicative of union membership, it is apparent that only about 1 out of 5 of all the employes involved are union members, and of the store employes only about 1 out of every 20.

"Since, however, the same figures indicated that the majority of the warehousemen and practically all of the truck drivers were members, we stated to union representatives this week that if all the groups returned to work and all the picket lines were withdrawn, we would submit to arbitration the question whether we should make the proposed closed shop provisions with the Teamsters' Union only. We further stated that we would take back all men except those who had been convicted of violence, and none of them would be in any way discriminated against. This offer was not accepted."

As Protests on Rogers Hiring City Police Are Weighed

'TUMOR BABY' DIES AFTER DAD GOES, TOO POOR TO STAY

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Harold Holt Jr., two, "tumor baby" who was given two weeks to live last March, died at New Rochelle hospital tonight.

Hospital officials said a partial diagnosis showed the Monongahela, Pa., baby died of an "intestinal obstruction." He had been suffering from Wilm's tumor, a form of cancer, and was apparently on the road to recovery when stricken last week with dysentery, an intestinal ailment.

His father, an unemployed riverboat deckhand, recently gave a blood transfusion, but returned to his home yesterday because he couldn't afford to stay in New Rochelle any longer.

MAN KILLS OFFICER, SELF, SHOOTS DAD

Unemployed Trucker Runs Amok After Quarrel With Wife.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Edward Barbier Jr., 30, unemployed truck driver, ran amok following a quarrel with his wife in suburban Westwego today, killed the town marshal, shot his own father through the stomach, and then killed himself.

Investigating officers said Barbier who also fired on his wife and brother-in-law, was "crazed by drink and infuriated at efforts of his family to quiet him."

Walter H. White, 55, Westwego marshal and father of nine children, died in Charity hospital here two hours after being shot through the brain with a .22 caliber rifle.

Edward Barbier Sr., 55, who had pleaded with his son for 10 minutes before being shot, was seriously wounded. Scores of witnesses saw the encounter about 10:30 a. m. near the entrance of the Robinson Canning Company, where the younger Barbier's wife was employed and where he had worked.

Police reported Barbier was "soddenly drunk" last night, and still under the effects of alcohol this morning.

PARLEY ON TOBACCO SLATED WEDNESDAY

Price and Marketing Situation Scheduled for Discussion.

By The Associated Press.

The Agriculture Department yesterday scheduled for next Wednesday a conference between its tobacco experts and flue-cured growers and tobacco manufacturers on the price and marketing situation.

The department said such a conference had been sought by the growers, manufacturers, and members of congress.

Meanwhile, bright leaf tobacco prices dropped toward the 13-cent level in south Georgia, but maintained an opening-day average of near 18 cents in the South Carolina auction centers.

North Carolina growers, in a mass meeting at Raleigh, heard R. M. Evans, agricultural adjustment administrator, express the view that a "permanent" program was being shaped to control production and assure good prices.

The growers assembled on call of the Farm Bureau Federation to discuss the tobacco situation, made acute by the south Georgia prices of 4 to 12 cents less than comparative prices in 1938 sales.

"Indications are that the secretary (of agriculture) will be required to proclaim a quota which would apply to the 1940 crop," Evans declared.

Brisk sales continued in the South Carolina markets, with warehouses blocked in some towns. The 18-cent average was about five cents off from the 1938 opening prices, but some improvement in the quality was noted yesterday, and at Darlington an average of 19 cents was reported, with better leaf selling at 25 and 26.

Moultrie, among Georgia markets, had a 12.82 average against a 14.04 average Wednesday; Tifton reported 13.05 compared to 15.53 for the first week; and Valdosta had 13.13 compared with 14.56.

Few bids were rejected in either belt, Georgia growers pointing out that a price differential customarily existed between the areas. The South Carolina growers appeared to be satisfied, despite apprehension over the drop in the south Georgia bidding.

2-WAY RADIO VOTED FOR OFFICERS' CARS

Commissioners To Install Six at Once at Cost of $1,200 To $2,000 Each.

Two-way radios for privately-owned cars used by county policemen were voted yesterday by the county commission at a special session.

The commissioners voted to install six of them immediately at a cost between $1,200 and $2,000 and to purchase others as soon as money was available.

Commissioners, who have just put into effect a new system whereby county employes must furnish their own vehicles and be paid for travel expense by the county, asserted they believed the two-way radios would save a great deal in the cost of policing the county.

Must Pay Taxes, Insurance.

This action came as the commission notified county employes that they will have to bear the expense of taxes and insurance on their cars in the future—items that were paid for by the county previously under the old system of county-owned automobiles.

Employes were notified also that those who had been driving county cars will be given preference in buying them, but that other county workers will have only the same chance to bid on the autos as the general public. Commissioner Gloer Hailey insisted that this be the practice.

Plan Assailed.

Dr. C. R. Adams, chairman of the police committee, again asserted he was doubtful that county police will work as hard and take as many risks while driving their own cars as they did when operating county vehicles.

First policemen to get the two-way radios for their machines will be on the south side of Fulton county, the commissioners voted. Then two-way radios will be placed in two machines on the north side and two on the west side.

200 PUSH THREE-DAY HUNT FOR LOST BABY

CRAMER, Minn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Two hundred farmers, townspeople and CCC enrollees joined for the third day today in a search for two-year-old Kelly Whicken, who wandered away from his home late Tuesday while his mother was picking berries.

The mother, Mrs. Lawrence Whicken, left Kelly and his six-year-old brother playing in their yard, about a mile north of here. When she returned, after several hours, the younger child was gone and the other boy was unable to tell what had happened to him.

JURY SHIFTS PROBE TO NEEDLESS CARS

sonally to headquarters at the courthouse daily. The same situation prevails with employes of some other departments.

Told of Private Use.

Law said he was not present when the county car committee held its meeting Thursday, at which it was learned jurors were told county employes last year drove county cars 1,066,000 miles for private use.

He said he "understood" something like that had been reported.

The foreman also brought up the matter of his letter to Ed L. Almand, chairman of the county commission, asking that county cars not be disposed of until September 1. Almand said he received the letter after the county commission meeting last week when the commissioners voted to sell the cars and pay travel expense by allowances.

Law pointed out that in the original resolution adopted by the commissioners on the plan to sell the county autos, they had set August 15 as the day to start selling the machines.

"Displeased With Haste."

When he wrote his letter asking sale be delayed until September 1, Law said he thought he was giving the commissioners two full weeks' notice of the desires of the grand jury.

"We are not criticizing their plan but only are displeased with the haste with which it was put into effect," he commented.

"We are in no sense fighting the commissioners," he added.

The commissioners contiuued selling the county cars yesterday and some 30 had been purchased by county workers while others had bought new machines.

Under the new plan, the employes are to be paid depreciation, tire, oil and repair expenses on a fixed basis and then one and one-half cents per mile for gas used on county business.

Along another direction, the jurymen extended another probe—that of the sewer system.

Ed McGonigal, chairman of a committee on sewers, said the group will hold another meeting at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon to hear from any contractor or engineer or anybody from the public who wishes to appear.

He said it will the last meeting for the public and is being held because a number of persons had requested it.

Contractors and experts last week charged excessive expense in erecting sewers in the county, criticized "high-handed" methods and charged waste and poor engineering.

Stoplights Don't Stop Accidents---Here's Bad Corner

Constitution Staff Photo—H. J. Slayton.

Traffic lights may help but they don't prevent traffic accidents. This intersection of Capitol avenue and Fair street chalked up 13 mishaps during the 12-month period ending July 1 to make it one of the most dangerous spots in the city. Scores of other hazardous areas have been revealed by a traffic survey just completed by the police department.

Officers of Old 122d Infantry Commissioned as Artillerymen

Regular Army Observers Compliment Speed, Proficiency With Which Unit Was Transformed and Took to Field With Their Unfamiliar Big Guns.

The federal government yesterday recognized the high standard of the commissioned personnel of the former 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, recently converted into the 179th field artillery, when the transfer from infantry to artillery of 46 of its officers, headed by Colonel Thomas L. Alexander, of 422 Euclid terrace, N. E., commanding officer, was recognized and they were commissioned in the artillery by the War Department with rank in the national guard of the United States.

With the metamorphosis complete, at least as far as the technical transition is concerned, the regiment now has as its objective the winning as a field artillery unit the laurels it acquired during the 15 years it served as the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard.

While it is the consensus of regular army and militia experts in Atlanta that it takes more to make an artilleryman than the mere designation, the proficient manner in which the 179th adapted itself to artillery tactics during the recent two-week training period at Fort McClellan, Alabama, speaks well for the future of the regiment.

Admired By Officers.

Regular army observers at McClellan expressed admiration and surprise at the brief space of time in which the officers and men of the Atlanta artillery unit adapted themselves to handling the big guns. The regiment engaged in field tactics and firing practice within 10 days after it began the study of mathematical problems incident to artillery drill.

Conversion of the regiment from an infantry unit to an artillery unit was ordered by the War Department when it was found that the 122d did not fit into the War Department set-up in the state, and that there was a need for an artillery regiment to protect those infantry units already in existence.

During its years of service as an infantry regiment, the 122d. established a record for proficiency which ranged high in national guard circles in the country.

Other officers in the unit receiving federal recognition included:

Lieutenant Colonel Sion B. Hawkins, 375 Boulevard, N. E.

Majors—Ben T. Huiet, state commissioner of labor; Elbert P. Tuttle, 61 Palisades road, N. W., and Walter B. Elliott, 1278 West Peachtree street.

Captains in Lists.

Captains — Duncan G. Peek, Conway road; William E. Green, Conway road; David F. Stevenson, 239 Moreland avenue; Rex W. Lefevre, 1566 Rogers avenue, S. W.; Marion Williamson, 1247 Clifton road, N. E.; William L. Mattox, 567 Peachtree Battle avenue, N. W.; Charles B. Bottoms, 418 North avenue, N. E.; Sterling B. Howard, 1479 Allene avenue, S. W.; Frank A. Kopf, 2020 Ridgewood drive, N. E.; Frank C. Everett, 607 Angier avenue, N. E.; Frank E. Hawkinson Jr., Richard E. Endicott, 973 Eden avenue, S. E.; Ezra M. Sasseville, 906 Parkway drive, N. E., and Arthur R. Churchill, 314 East Princeton avenue, College Park.

First Lieutenants — John K. Fleming, 865 Oakhill avenue; William J. Stokes, 346 Sutherland terrace; James K. Bell, 1179 Cahaba drive; Elmer L. Stanley, 1055 Cumberland road; Harry S. Manry, 1151 Cascade avenue; Ernest A. Nealy, 244 Spring street, Decatur; Lewis W. McPherson, 661 Maryland avenue; John T. Daniell, 67 Clifton street; Leonard LaF. Young, 665 Lexington avenue, and Harry A. McLeod, 861 Arlington place.

Second Lieutenants—Charles B. Preston, 1425 Allegheny avenue, and John A. Brock, 531 Hardin avenue, College Park.

Officers of the regiment living outside Atlanta are First Lieutenant Pleasant W. Martin and Second Lieutenant Roy Wesley Hogan, both of Macon.

Recognition also was given several officers of the 121st infantry, Georgia national guard. Among them were Major Charles F. Pope, of Dublin; Captains Robert McAllister and William F. Geeslin, both of Macon, and Captain Luther T. Gillen, of Ashburn, Ga., who is attached to the state staff.

BICYCLE FATALITY NO BLOT ON RECORD

ed gently, but with that certain firmness which marks the true executive.

This machine was fed a lot of statistics which showed there were 182 points in Atlanta where more than five traffic accidents, of varying degrees of gravity, had occurred. At these points the total of accidents which had occurred was 1,481.

And of these 1,481 accidents (follow diligently, men, or you'll be left) exactly 800 happened where there were traffic lights, only 355 happened where there were stop signs—and but 326 happened where there was nothing whatever of a warning nature to safeguard the motorist and/or pedestrian.

Forsyth and Marietta streets, like Abou Ben Adhem, led all the rest with a score of 22. Central avenue and Decatur street was second with 20, and there were others running right along.

Seventeen accidents each were attributed to Boulevard and Fair streets and to Capitol and Georgia avenues, 18 to the intersection of Marietta and Spring streets; and 16 each to these crossings—Auburn and Piedmont, Boulevard and Ponce de Leon, Butler and Decatur, Central and Hunter, Hunter and Washington, and Irwin and Randolph.

The analysis covered the whole city and was expected to cause considerable cerebration on the part of all traffic-minded folk, from Mayor Hartsfield to General Moseley, as soon as the first shock of the findings had slowed down to a trot.

ROOSEVELT DECLINES FOREST FESTIVAL BID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Representative Gibbs, Democrat, Geogia, invited President Roosevelt today to attend a festival by the Forestry Association at Waycross, Ga., October 17-21.

The President said he would be unable to attend because the date interferred with his west coast trip, but told Gibbs he would try to visit Waycross next February on a trip to Warm Springs, Ga.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Profit-taking in the stock market, which got under way in the latter part of the preceding session, picked up momentum today and leading issues tumbled 1 to around 3 points.

Steels, motors, rubbers, mail orders, aircrafts and specialties were in the forefront of the decline. Rails, utilities and some coppers held losses to relatively small amounts. Extreme setbacks were reduced in many cases at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off a full point at 49.4, largest drop in this composite since June 29. Transfers totalled 900,820 shares against 1,007,267 the day before.

Off fractions to more than a point in the curb were Newmont Mining, Northern States Power "A," Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, United Gas and American Gas & Electric. Turnover of 159,000 shares compared with 217,000 Thursday.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Considerable pressure developed against the domestic sugar futures contract today when the market heard from Washington that action on Cuban duty reductions probably would not be carried out until congress reconvenes in 1940.

Final prices were unchanged to 4 lower with September and November deliveries under most pressure. Sales totaled 21,100 tons.

The world contract finished ½ point off to 1 up on turnover of only 1,100 tons. September ended 1.17, March 1.16 bid.

Duty free offerings of raw sugar remained at 2.90 cents. Cuban c. and f. prices were established at 2 cents late Thurday on an early August shipment sale. Refinded held at 4.30@.40 cents.

No 3 range follows:

	High	Low	Close
September	1.92	1.90	1.90
November	2.00	1.97	b1.96
January	1.92	1.91	1.92
March	1.95	1.93	1.94

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Santos coffee futures responded to reports of a steady actuals market today. Brazilian covering and buying credited to roasting interests met relatively small offerings.

Santos closed 1 to 5 points higher on sales of 8750 bags; September 6.09b, March 6.30, May 6.35, July 6.38b. Old and new Rio were unchanged with no sales in either contract. Old Rio September 4.27b, December 4.34b, March 4.34b.

b—Bid.

Spot coffee held steady. Santos 4s at 7¼; Rio 7s at 5⅛. Cost and freight offerings included Santos Bourbon 3s and 5s at 6.50@7.00.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Wheat prices sagged 1-2 cent a bushel in late trade today after having scored gains of about a cent. The close was unchanged to 1-4 down.

Trade was light and easily influenced by moderate buying or selling while a waiting attitude developed pending clarification of the government's crop loan program.

Restoration of a $119,000,000 fund for crop loans to the session's last appropriation bill by a senate subcommittee had no immediate effect on prices. The bill was expected to go to the senate floor for debate later today. Secretary Wallace testified in behalf of the fund before the subcommittee yesterday, following failure of the house to approve the appropriation Wednesday. Secretary Wallace predicted that the slash, if sustained by both houses, would cause a decline in commodity prices.

Contributing to the early upturn were firmness at Liverpool, continued strength at Winnipeg and more reports of dry, hot weather in the Canadian spring wheat belt.

Live Stock

ATLANTA.

These prices, quoted by the White Provision Company, are on strictly corn-fed hogs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Bonds of all categories felt the pull of moderate selling today.

Closing losses in corporate ranged from fractions to around 2 points. U. S. governments coasted down for final losses of 1-32d to 15-32ds.

The trend provided grounds for comment in that low-yield ratings were relatively as weak as the speculative types which usually move with the stock market.

Pressure on the general run of rails and utilities, which had been leaders in the July upturn, was attributed to profit selling to even accounts over the week end.

Japanese and Italian obligations were on the loss side while various South Americans improved fractionally.

Transactions totaled $5,190,000 face value against $6,186,500 on Thursday.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling 9.85.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—(AP) The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 10 points lower at 9.28 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 9.37 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A last-minute selling flurry upset the calm of a waiting cotton futures market today. Final prices were off 5 to 9 points.

Reports to the trade that Texas rains—highly beneficial to the crop—might become general started the late pressure. The heavy Texas rain and Oklahoma showers came to regions recently affected by exceedingly hot dry conditions.

What the market was most interested in, however, was final congressional action on the third deficiency bill. Senate adoption of a committee amendment to restore $119,000,000 to help repair the capital of the Commodity Credit Corporation came after the close.

Exports today 2,656 bales; season so far 14,318. Port receipts 13,988; port stocks 1,973,139.

EVENING UP SENDS COTTON PRICES DOWN

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Evening up in advance of the bureau's crop estimate next Tuesday sent cotton futures prices lower here today and the close was steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

BRIDGES ACCUSES POLICE OF MURDER

Charges U. S. Subsidized Waterfront Employers in Tear Gas Purchases.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(AP) Harry Bridges, west coast CIO director, accused the government today of subsidizing waterfront employers in purchasing tear gas fired at workers in the 1934 coastwide port tieup.

He made the accusation in telling his own story of his labor activities after two and one-half days of answering questions at his deportation hearing regarding his belief in government ownership of industry and his attitude toward Communism.

"It is a matter of record that the greatest purchases of tear gas in 1934 were made by waterfront employers of the Pacific," said the Australian-born labor leader fighting deportation on charges he is a Communist. "They were bought with money furnished by the government as subsidies."

Shows Emotion.

In his first show of emotion on the witness stand Bridges told of the killing of two pickets during the strike.

"A majority of the 400 men who were shot were shot in the back and the two men who were killed were shot in the back," he declared. "It was a deliberate plan to murder by the police and we have never forgotten it."

Suspects Police Connivance.

He said he suspected police connivance in vigilante raids which followed the end of San Francisco's general strike, called after the shootings. The police arrived 20 minutes after each vigilante raid "and arrested everyone who was lying around unconscious," he asserted.

After telling his own life history Bridges was excused from the stand and the defense said it would call Harper Knowles, a witness before the Dies committee investigation into un-American activity, Monday in an effort to show improper inducement to witnesses to testify against Bridges.

NAVY DENIES JAPANESE 'BOMBING OF U. S. SUB'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(UP) The Navy Department tonight officially denied a statement reportedly made to San Francisco news reporters by Lieutenant R. R. Ransom that the U. S. submarine S-37 had been bombed by a Japanese plane in Chinese waters several weeks ago.

Naval spokesmen said there was "no truth" in the report. They recalled that Ransom was attached to the Asiatic submarine service in 1937 but was relieved at that time to take up shore patrol duties in the Philippines and remained there until his recent transfer to this country.

Here's Tough Golf Alibi to Break Down

Something new in golfing alibis turned up last night on the No. 1 tee of the John A. White municipal course—a two-foot long alligator. Blackie Whitley (above) was about to swing his club in the rough when the alligator struck at him. Quite naturally, Whitley dubbed the shot. The alligator took a bite at the ball, for the benefit of the cameraman.

FLORIDAN CAPTURES EGG-COOKING TITLE

Gainesville Housewife Gets $1,000 in Contest for U. S. Crown.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A young Gainesville, Fla., housewife whipped up a tasty chicken liver omelet and a trayfull of other choice dishes today to become the best egg meal menu planner in the United States.

Her culinary prowess won Mrs. Hixson, 28, first prize of $1,000, awarded by the world's poultry congress where she topped 19 other regional contestants and three other finalists.

Tonight, her household budget underwent a sudden revision—upward.

For Budget's Sake.

"The money will go into the budget—maybe we'll live on a little better scale," she smiled. The budget covers a husband who is an instructor in the University of Florida School of Agriculture and a five-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Hixson learned cooking in the home economics department of Oklahoma A. & M. College, where she was graduated.

She worked briskly before scores of critical housewives as she prepared this complete prize-winning meal in one hour and 45 minutes in today's cook-off: Tomato juice cocktail, chicken liver omelet, browned potatoes, asparagus with hollandaise sauce, lettuce with French dressing, wholewheat muffins, fruit roll, beverage.

Second Prize $250.

The $250 second prize will help its winner, Miss Marie Hoffman, of Faribault, Minn., to complete her home economics study at the University of Minnesota. Miss Hoffman, 22, already has financed two years of the four-year course by teaching rural school, and now is 4-H Club agent for Rice county at Faribault. She cooked creamed eggs and chicken in a rice ring with sauted mushrooms.

Mrs. W. E. Otis, 32, who lives on a farm near Mason, Mich., was the only finalist who "learned cooking from my mother and by observation." She received third prize of $150 on a meal planned around a French omelet with sauted mushrooms.

Eggs a la king in pastry shells gave Mrs. Paul R. Allen, of Weston, Mass., the $100 fourth-place award.

Finalists cooked their menus for at least the third time. They were chosen from 20 women selected from regional contests held throughout the country.

MAP WINS GIRL, 20, STATE TYPIST POST

ant, and told him she was ready for work.

That's where coincidence entered. For, at that very moment, Groves was reading a clipping from a suburban weekly in which a columnist verbally "cracked down" on the capitol. The paragraph in the column charged that the legislative halls were dusty and unkempt, and that objectionable language had been written on the corridor walls.

Groves looked from the clipping to the girl, suspected a "gag." He asked Miss Shields: "Who gave you $5 to come here with that mop and stuff?"

Miss Shields, unaware of the clipping, insisted she had come to work at the request of Head.

Groves took her around to the Governor's office. There Marvin Griffin, gubernatorial aide, was shown the clipping. He, too, looked from the clipping to the girl. Miss Shields told him she wanted a job cleaning up the capitol.

"Well, young lady," said Griffin, rising from his desk, "let's go see about that right now."

He hastened with her to the legislative chambers on the third floor. Everything was in order, clean, walls free of mystic symbols and other writings. Griffin told Miss Shields she had "gotten a wrong steer on the cleaning job."

Undismayed, the young woman toted her mop, bucket and box of washing powder once more to Head's office. Impressed by his niece's "nerve" and willingness to work, Head sent out word that she should be given a job.

So Miss Shields will tickle the typewriter keys in the revenue office, beginning August 15.

G.M. STRIKERS VOTE ON TERMS TODAY

CIO Hails Pact 'Victory'; AFL Says 'Typical Lewis Sellout.'

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Executives of the CIO United Automobile Workers tonight ratified the terms of an agreement to settle the month-old strike of skilled workers in 12 General Motors plants.

Tomorrow the strikers themselves will vote at their respective plants on accepting or rejecting the agreement.

In announcing the result R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, said that "substantial gains on every point" had been made by the union as a result of the strike.

Approximately 150,000 production workers will be returned to their jobs beginning next Monday if the agreement is signed tomorrow.

Unofficially it was reported that the union had given certain assurances that there would be no more strikes during the 1940 production until full grievance machinery had been used in an attempt to attain an agreement.

The AFL United Automobile Workers, a rival union, through Elmer Dowell, director of its General Motors division, contended the UAW-CIO agreement was "a typical John L. Lewis sellout."

WORK RESUMED AT GREEN MOUNTAIN DAM

GREEN MOUNTAIN DAM, Colo., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Grim and still apprehensive, men went back to work today on the Green Mountain dam, scene of a 48-hour labor disturbance marked by rifle fire and physical combat that brought injury to seven persons.

Only weapons in evidence were those of national guardsmen sent by Governor Ralph L. Carr to quell "a state of insurrection." But stacked in the sagebrush-studded camp were 300 assorted guns, taken from workmen and residents of the area.

"Strikers and non-strikers are working side by side," reported A. K. Anderson, superintendent of the project for the Warner Construction Company.

W. G. ELLIOTT, 61, DIES IN KENTUCKY

Atlantans' Father Was Dispatcher for Southern.

W. G. Elliott, 61, father of Mrs. Newton Fowler and Charles W. Elliott, both of Atlanta, died yesterday morning at his home in Somerset, Ky.

Mr. Elliott was a dispatcher for the Southern Railway and had been connected with the line for the major portion of his life.

Also surviving is his wife. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at Somerset.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN BARBECUE TODAY

The annual barbecue and picnic of the Atlanta council, Knights of Columbus, will be held from 4:30 o'clock this afternoon until 10:30 o'clock tonight at Lakemoore, on the Roswell road.

Proceeds will be used for charities of the organization. A dance and a program of various games will be features.

GRICE CITES FOLLY OF HUGE U. S. DEBT

John S. Wood Raps County Union Plan Before Court Clerks.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP) "Ministering priests in the temple of justice," as Judge Warren [illegible], associate supreme court justice, termed Georgia's superior court clerks, were warned here today of the danger of surrendering local self-government and of the folly of continuing to pile up a huge national debt.

The trend in recent years to concentrate power through the consolidation of governmental functions was noted by John S. Wood, of Canton, speaker at the opening session of the clerks' two-day convention. "Every law enacted today is in that direction," Wood said.

Wood said there is a move afoot to swallow up smaller counties in Georgia, and asserted it was undemocratic to force such a procedure. The value of home government, which is close to the people and makes them feel a part of it, vastly outweighs any argument in favor of consolidation, he said.

Georgia has the largest number of superior court clerks of any state in the Union, Wood pointed out, adding "This wasn't an accident, but was the idea of the men who carved Georgia out of a wilderness. They wanted to bring the government close to the people."

Wood found support in the remarks of Judge Alex W. Stephens, of the court of appeals, another convention speaker. "I don't think there's any differences on the proposition. We would do well to adhere to and go back to fundamentals, not only in government but in religion." These fundamentals, Judge Stephens explained, were local self-government and the sovereign rights of the states. "I agree," the jurist said, "that the least-governed people are the best governed."

Wood also denounced the sales tax, and said he believed taxes should be placed on "values," property and earning capacity. He scored huge federal spending which he said was piling up the national debt at the rate of $8,000 a minute.

The clerks spent the afternoon at Savannah Beach, where they enjoyed a dip in the surf and were feted at a shore dinner. Tonight a banquet at the Hotel De Soto highlighted the day. William G. Sutlive, Savannah newspaperman, was the banquet speaker. Tomorrow election of officers and routine convention business will be handled.

DR. JOHN FREEMAN RETIRES AT MERCER

Head of Christianity Department, 75, Keynoted 1st Baptist Congress.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—President Spright Dowell, of Mercer University, today announced retirement of Dr. John D. Freeman as head of the school's department of Christianity. Dr. Dowell said the faculty member resigned because of advancing age.

Dr. Freeman, now 75, began his ministerial work in New Brunswick and Ontario, 52 years ago. He is a native of Milton, Nova Scotia.

The theologian was keynoter at the First Baptist World Congress, held in London in 1905, and spent 18 years in England as pastor of two churches there. He was honorary chaplain of Canadian troops in the World War and a son fell in action in 1915 and is buried in Belgium.

Dr. Freeman was one of five Mercer faculty members accused last March of heresy. All were absolved.

He is the author of eight books. Three are religious works and five and novels.

A son, Dr. Ralph E. Freeman, is head of the department of economics at Massachusetts School of Technology and a daughter Mrs. Ebenezer Bushnell, lives in Cleveland.

AUTO TITLE BILL DRAWN FOR SOLONS

states now have some form of title law that calls for submission of documentary evidence in applying for a license tag.

Such a law as that proposed by McCord is intended to make the records of the state motor vehicle division wholly reliable and prevent innocent persons from being brought before the law and held responsible for infractions because their names were traced through false license numbers. It also would make the ownership of stolen automobiles virtually impossible, McCord said.

Under the present system of registration the real owner of a vehicle is not always the one in whose name a motor car is registered at the state capitol.

A concrete case arose yesterday. Edward W. Woods, of Athens, wrote that his automobile was damaged by a hit-and-run driver of a truck. Woods got the license number as the driver fled. He sent this number to Atlanta to have it checked. But the owner furnished by the motor vehicle division denied the possession of such a truck as that described by Woods and claimed no knowledge of the case.

BAPTISTS PROTEST RUMANIAN POLICY

Dr. Rushbrooke Files Alliance Resolution With Minister in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke, president of the Baptist World Alliance, presented to the Rumanian minister here today a resolution by the Alliance deploring what it said was the attempt of the Rumanian government to control internal affairs of Baptist churches in that country.

The resolution, which was handed to Minister Radu Irimescu, was submitted to the Baptist World Congress in Atlanta last week by an international deputation.

While the resolution said the action of the Rumanian government in seeking control of internal church affairs seemed to be "unacceptable," it added that the World Congress had "learned with satisfaction" that through the action of the prime minister churches which were closed last year would be reopened.

ATLANTAN IS FOUND SHOT AT HIS HOME

Winburn T. Cato in Critical Condition; Wound Self-Inflicted, Police Say.

Winburn T. Cato, 37, of 1583 Woodbine avenue, S. E., was in a critical condition at Grady hospital last night with a bullet wound in the right side of his head which police said was self-inflicted. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Hospital Officer E. P. Roberts reported that Cato was brought to the hospital at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Police reported that Cato shot himself just above the right ear with a .38 calibre pistol in a rear room of his home. They said that his wife, Mrs. Bertha Cato, told them she had been informed of the shooting by their five-year-old son, Leonard, who ran to her crying, "Daddy is rummaging in the trunk for a pistol."

The pistol, with four chambers still loaded, was found on the floor of the room.

Cato is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cato, of 487 Grant street, S. E. The parents could not throw any light on the reason for the shooting.

PRINCESS JULIANA GIVES BIRTH TO GIRL

absence of a male heir for the throne, now held by Queen Wilhemina, was expected to be offset by loyal Netherlanders' joy over a royal birth when the event became generally known.

Celebration Set for Monday.

It was announced that the nation's official celebration of the royal birth would be held Monday.

The Netherlands people, always enthusiastic about additions to the royal family, were expected to stage spontaneous demonstrations of their own as soon as the guns begin to boom today.

Streets virtually were deserted and all places of business were closed when the palace announcement came.

Elaborate Preparations.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the arrival of the royal heir.

Dr. D. De Groot, one of Juliana's physicians, took up residence in the palace last Saturday. A special detachment of military police early this week took over the regulation of traffic in the immediate neighborhood.

Despite constant interest in the international situation and preoccupation in the Netherlands' current cabinet crisis, detailed preparations were made for the countrywide celebrations of the royal birth.

Other Babies to Get Cradles.

Working class mothers whose babies are born today will be presented cradles by the royal family.

If the baby had been a boy the rights of Beatrix as heir-presumptive would have passed to him.

The last King of the Netherlands, William III, died in 1890. Wilhelmina became Queen then at the age of 10 under the regency of her mother.

Juliana would become Queen on the death or abdication of her mother. She in turn would be succeeded by her eldest son, or, if there were no son, by her eldest daughter.

It was announced that the baby weighed 3,870 grammes, or about eight and one-half pounds. She was described as a "well-formed, fine baby.

The announcement said "mother and daughter both are doing well."

Children Go to Hospital, Convinced It Was Powder

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—"Wonder if it's powder," mused John Procheska, 10, and Frank Forrest, 8, when they found a white substance in a bottle in a trash heap.

They touched a match to some of it. Next they went to a hospital, seriously burned.

CAMP COMMISSION ARRIVAL DELAYED

New Fourth District Representative Expected To Take Seat Today.

Sidney Camp, of Newnan, Georgia's new congressman, arrived in Washington yesterday but was prevented from taking his seat in the house of representatives by a delay in receiving his commission.

The credentials were sent air mail yesterday morning by Governor Rivers and are expected to arrive today so that he will be able to take his oath of office before adjournment.

After lunching with Representative Carl Vinson, dean of the Georgia delegation, Camp was introduced to Edward Brown, superintendent of the house office building, who assigned him office space.

A former United States district attorney, Camp succeeded the late Emmet M. Owen, of Griffin. He expressed a preference for assignment to the house committee on agriculture and listed the judiciary and veterans' affairs committees as "second choices."

His commission was mailed after Edgar Blalock, of Jonesboro, defeated by Camp in a special election in the fourth district last Tuesday, decided not to contest the result.

Roosevelt's personal tour of Maryland last year in an effort to prevent Tydings' re-election, held the Tydings-for-President drive added especial interest to advance campaign talk previously centered chiefly on whether Mr. Roosevelt would seek a third term.

Already in the forefront of the Democratic race as favorite son Democratic candidates are Vice President Garner, whose cause has been boomed by the Texas congressional delegation and pressed actively from his home state, and Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, whose Indiana friends are vigorously promoting his selection—if and when the President decides against a third term attempt.

It was noted, too, that the Marylander's appearance on the Presidential horizon was similar in some respects to that of Ohio's Robert A. Taft, who acceded yesterday to a request of constituents that he become a candidate for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination.

In Ohio, however, state law requires a presidential candidate to consent in writing to the use of his name on the ballot. No such statute exists in Maryland, and the Tydings movement already has progressed to the point of publication of campaign literature.

Colonel Alvin K. Baskette, president of the Calvert Club, said the club was preparing to issue thousands of chain-letters, addressed from mailing lists to be furnished by Tydings, to rally support.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR JUDGESHIP BILL

Ramspeck Says Measure Unlikely To Be Enacted at This Session.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Although the house judiciary committe has reported favorably an omnibus judgeship bill containing provision for a new judge in the northern district of Georgia, Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Decatur, author of an individual bill covering the same subject, said today he held out little hope of enactment this session.

As the omnibus judgeship bill passed the senate earlier it made provision for the appointment of five additional district judges in various sections of the country, one of which was for the western district of Oklahoma. The house committee struck out the judge for Oklahoma and substituted an additional judge for the northern district of Georgia. The bill was only reported to the house last week and got caught in the pre-adjournment legislative jam.

Both Georgia senators, Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr., have held out for the creation of a new federal judicial district in the state and have opposed efforts of Representative Ramspeck to create an additional judge for the northern district. The Decatur representative insists that the Department of Justice will never approve the creation of a new district in the state on the ground that it is not needed. But the attorney general, he said, has indorsed an additional judge for the northern district because of the crowded condition of that district's court calendar.

"A bill for the creation of an additional judge," Ramspeck declared, "was first introduced in congress during the year 1930 when Herbert Hoover was President. Since then such a bill has passed the house twice but was held up in the senate."

HAGUE SUPPORTS F. D. R. FOR 3D TERM

Jersey City Boss '100 Per Cent Behind President' in 1940.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—(AP)—An authoritative source in city hall announced tonight that Mayor Frank Hague was "100 per cent" behind President Roosevelt for a third term "if he wants it."

Should the President decide not to run, the qualified spokesman for the mayor said, Hague would back delegates to the Democratic national convention in 1940 who would be prepared to back any candidate supported by Mr. Roosevelt.

Hague is vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and New Jersey party leader. His choices usually are tantamount to election in Democratic primaries.

Mrs. Coker was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. J. T. Ozburn.

Miss Baker Becomes Bride of Dr. Olson.

Announcements have been received in Atlanta of the marriage of Miss Lila Richardson Baker to Dr. Everett Claire Olson on July 15 in Hinsdale, Ill.

Mrs. Olson is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Richardson Baker and the late P. D. Baker. Her grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Baker, of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Richardson, of Washington, Ga.

The bride made her home with her mother, Mrs. Mary Richardson Baker, at 1511 East Hyde Park boulevard, Chicago, Ill. She made many friends in Atlanta while visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ruse, 76 Maddox drive.

Dr. Olson is a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago, Ill. He is the younger son of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Olson, of Hinsdale.

For Miss Thompson.

Continuing a series of parties honoring Miss Edna Ruth Thompson, whose marriage to Carl Barnard Fincher will take place at an early date, was the miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Frank Allgood at her home on Fairbanks street recently.

Mrs. Clyde Guinn assisted the hostess. The guests enjoyed a contest after which refreshments were served, the color motif of yellow and white being carried out in detail.

Guests included Mesdames Claud Woods, George Benton, Paul Scoggins, Alton Smallwood, Willie Belle McGlaughlin, Frances Allred, T. S. Thompson, Gene Skipper, Clyde Guinn, Misses Jenny Maloof, Claudia Eubanks, Eunice Smith, Sarah Thompson, Beatrice Turner, Irma Carmichael, Ann Elizabeth McGlaughlin, and the honor guest, Miss Edna Ruth Thompson, and hostess, Mrs. Frank Allgood.

Harper—Wallace.

GODFREY, Ga., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Fielder Harper announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bertie Harper, of Dublin, to W. D. Wallace, which was solemnized Sunday at the Methodist parsonage in Shady Dale.

The Rev. A. B. Wheelis officiated in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fielder Harper and the late Mr. Harper. Mr. Wallace is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wallace, of Austell.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will reside in Eatonton, where the former is in business.

Miss Krueger Feted.

Honoring Miss Virginia Krueger, whose marriage to Algar Furman Hines will be an event of August 19, was the tea and miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. George Tyler was hostess Thursday at her home on Rosedale drive.

Assisting the hostess in entertaining was Mrs. D. I. Tignor.

Present were Miss Krueger, Mesdames Edward Lumis, K. C. Edgar, Ben Thomas, C. E. Hubbs, J. W. Warwick, George Miller, C. F. Gibbons, C. T. Bowen, D. L. Jamerson, C. F. Dodd, Lucile Stewart, Lee Nowell, George L. Hauck, E. A. Henrick, K. B. Heffner, E. B. Hoggard and H. L. Robertson.

Exercise Streamlines Your Figure—But You Must Watch Calories!

Compact Tissue Should Replace Flabby Fat

By Ida Jean Kain.

Exercise is the modern miracle worker and no girl can be streamlined without it. But exercise is tricky. It may act as an appetizer and cause you to take on weight you do not want, or it may cause you to lose a few pounds you really need.

Something of the kind happened when a picture of Rosalind Russell and Ann Morriss was being filmed. In the role of an instructor, Miss Morriss put Miss Russell through a set of reducing exercises. But, contrary to the script, she lost five pounds, while Miss Russell gained three!

In the final analysis, the effect of exercise on the weight is an indirect one. Miss Russell gained because she had a better appetite and took more food. The instructor lost either because she took too little food or because the nervous energy involved greatly increased her calorie expenditure—which adds up to the same thing!

But in spite of this roundabout influence of exercise on weight, it is necessary in any weight normalizing program. A nourishing diet is wasted on the thin girl unless she can assimilate it, and daily exercise tends to improve digestion, assimilation and circulation. Under those conditions she cannot help gaining if she has the right diet.

Since exercise is not reducing, you overweights might feel you can forget about it. But the only way you can replace flabby, bulky fat with firm compact tissue is through an exercise program. In fact, if you want to look 10 pounds lighter without losing a pound, go in for exercise! Exercise will not only trim inches off your measurements, but it will make you feel infinitely better. If you "feel old," the probability is that you have never made a practice of getting enough exercise to whip up your circulation and interest in living. A sedentary life is conducive to vegetation and thick waistlines!

When you do begin to take an active interest in exercise, however, take it easy. You can't leap from your armchair into a fast game of tennis or into championship swimming. You will have to get used to exercise before you can put yourself to any tests. If you overdo, you will feel worse. It would be better to start with just five minute of mild exercise a day and gradually work up to 30 or 45 minutes of vigorous exercise. If you start off with 45 minutes, the first day will probably be the last. Besides, there's no point in trying to hurry, exercise works its miracles fairly slowly. Don't expect changes in less than a week.

Along with your exercise, keep close tab on the calories. In order to gain, you must take more calories than you can spend in energy. If you are to lose, exercise your will power to keep from taking as many calories as you spend.

MY DAY Children Cure Gypsies of Roving

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—"Mrs. Roosevelt, it is not for the older people that I am talking to you, it is for the little children, that they may have a chance to go to school and to church and grow up different." The big man, Steve Kaslov, stood opposite me in his shirt sleeves. There was dignity in his bearing for he was the head of his particular gypsy tribe. With the aid of Mr. Read Lewis, of the Foreign Language Information Service, a committee has been formed to help these gypsies to ply their trade, not along the roadside, but on a floor at 214 The Bowery, New York city.

I climbed two flights of stairs to find them yesterday. It was a bare place, for they have made their own tools and equipment. They lit a fire and demonstrated then and there how well they knew their trade, retinning for me an old rusty iron tray, and showing me some beautiful iron and copper pots which they had mended. For years the gypsies have been nomads, inheriting secrets of the uses of metals and acids and plying their trade throughout the world. The depression has put many of them on relief, and even the older ones now are willing to settle in one place because they see what it will mean to their children in the future.

If the big hotels and city institutions could be bothered to send to the gypsies many of the things which they now throw away, they would get them back better than new, stronger even than they were before and quite safe to use again for many years. As Mr. Kaslov said to me, "Copper lives forever." The city and state would save, and the gypsies would be self-supporting as they want to be.

Some people think of the gypsies as being thieves and kidnapers, and I suppose there was some justification for this in the past. In any case, the legend has always made meeting the gypsies a somewhat exciting experience, but that is over now. They have come up against the law many times and often found it hard to get justice. They are a sad people and a minority group I feel we should try to help. I hope that many people will find their way with things to be mended to that bare loft down on the Bowery.

It was a little bit cooler yesterday in New York city and I managed to do a number of things. However, while I went around the city I kept thinking of a celebration which took place last week. Every now and then I would come to a playground filled with children. What a contrast to the crowded streets of my youth, which were the only playgrounds for children in slum areas of that time.

Last week, on July 28, the recreational authorites under the leadership of the National Recreation Association celebrated the second national Joseph Lee Day, in memory of the "Father of the Playground Movement." He devoted nearly 50 years of his life and much of his fortune to the cause of recreation for young people, which is almost as important as food, housing, medical care and schooling. Therefore, the use of this day to call the attention of the public to the recreation movement and to keep Joseph Lee's memory green seems to me an occasion worth remembering.

"Keep Learning" Youth Studies At Home

In a few weeks colleges open all over America. But many of those who long to go will not be registering.

These intelligent young people who want the background that college can give—must they be left behind to settle in a rut? Not in these days of free educational resources. Everyone can have his own home university and its best motto is "Keep Learning."

Caught in a conversation with cultured people, the spineless person of limited education will think "What's the use?" How can he know what's meant by "the Uncle Tom's Cabin of modern novels," the "megalomaniac type," the "three B's of music"?

But the "Keep Learning" student will promptly find out—will read magazine and newspaper reviews to keep up with modern literature. Library books on psychology and music will be part of his home college course.

And one splendid advantage of the individual university is that it can be planned to fit you exactly—your interests and immediate needs.

And, of course, for any job, for life itself, you are better equipped if you have a foundation of the subjects college people study.

How to plan your home college is discussed in our 40-page booklet, "Suppose You Haven't Gone to College." Gives reading lists in college subjects—such as the sciences, economics, the arts, philosophy. Tells of sources for learning, how to use them.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, SUPPOSE YOU HAVEN'T GONE TO COLLEGE, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"Ferdinand" Lost His Gentle Ways

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4—Richard Arlen bought a baby bull a couple of years ago, and called him "Ferdinand" because of his sweet, gentle ways. The other day, Ferdinand tried to gore a farmer and lost his name and home the same day. Dick made a deal with the local blacksmith. He gave him Ferdinand and in return the blacksmith shoes the Arlen horses free for one year.

Robert Taylor has bought a couple of race horses from his wife's training stable and will race them at Santa Anita next season under his own colors. . . . George Raft has been ordered to lose that extra poundage around his waist. He has to strip for his next picture—"Patent Leather Kid"—in which he's a boxer. The bulge would not look so pretty. . . . The Deanna Durbin-Vaughn Paul romance is in the status quo stage, but will probably be revived when she finishes her current picture and has more time to give the young man. Or has the bright glare of publicity killed it off completely?

The reason for the sudden change in the title of "Are Husbands Necessary?" was that the star, Madeleine Carroll, threatened to bring suit unless the studio kept its promise to her and gave the picture a title less reflective of her private life troubles. The movie is now called "My Love for Yours."

Would you call this a gesture of love? Jimmy Stewart, who would sooner make model planes than make love, gave two of them to neighbor Binnie Barnes. She has them hanging over the couch in her bedroom. . . . Jackie Coogan explains anent wife Betty Grable's second divorce suit: It was no use going on as we were. We couldn't afford to be together. My life for the past two years has been nothing but trouble. Why? I've been a good kid. Oh, well, I'm a fatalist."

Paul Muni lives up to the title "We Are Not Alone" by killing his screen wife while his real wife looks on—and approves. . . . The wife of a well-known, fragile-looking screen actor slapped his face in a public restaurant during an argument over the lad's too obvious admiration for his pretty secretary.

The evolution of a house. First, it was bought by Hedy Lamarr, who put in a swimming pool. After Hedy's marriage, it was sold to the Leslie Howards. The Howards are leaving shortly for England and it will then be rented to Vivien Leigh. Mrs. Howard tells her intimates that she will not be returning to Hollywood. Husband Leslie is committed to make a couple of pictures here in the fall for R. K. O.-Radio. But will come back alone. Does this mean the actual beginning of the end for the couple who have been married for years?

Metro and Paramount are the only two major studios in Hollywood who maintain offices and sell their product in Germany. Which is why Paramount dropped plans to produce "Heil, America" and Metro dittoed "It Can't Happen Here." . . . Olivia De Havilland and sister, Joan Fontaine, went to the Helen Hayes play together, accompanied by Tim Durant and Alex Steinert. A cameraman took a picture of Olivia and Joan, then demanded "What are your names?" When Olivia had recovered from the shock, she told him "Louise Fazenda and Mary Pickford." The lens had started writing, then did a double take. "Which," he asked, "is Miss Fazenda?"

As an accompaniment to your favorite fruit salad try this special new dressing.

Better to Dress Up Everyday Foods Than Fix Unusual Foods Elaborately

By SALLY SAVER.

A reputation for good cooking depends more upon being able to give interesting little turns and twists to simple every day foods than upon doing unusual foods elaborately. Sauces, dressings, an unusual flavor here and there do the trick.

Today, because you might want to do something a bit unusual over the week end, particularly if you are having several people in to Sunday night supper, I am offering an unusual dressing for a fruit salad. Choose your favorite fruit combination and try this dressing on it, served, if you like, on a large tray as shown above.

Special Cream Pineapple Dressing.

2-3 package cream cheese
1 cup whipping cream
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
Few drops lemon juice

Work cheese to a smooth paste, add gradually the cream, salt, paprika and pineapple juice. Just before serving, beat well and add the lemon juice. One tablespoon chopped nut meats may be added just before serving, if desired. Yield approximately 2 cups dressing.

Fruit salad with this special dressing, wedges of cheese with pretzels, crackers, wafers or, if more substantial servings are needed, meat or cheese sandwiches would make an easy-to-serve and very tasty supper. Tea or coffee, hot or cold, would be an appropriate beverage to complete this meal.

Write or phone Sally Saver for answers to your food questions, care The Constitution, or WA. 6565.

What Is Solution To Rebid Problem?

WHAT TO REBID?

South opens the bidding one club. West overcalls one diamond, North and East passing. What is South's rebid with the following hands:

(1) S—9 6 3 D—K 8 4 H—K 2 C—A K 7 4 3

Your answer:

PROGRESSIVE BRIDGE.

Mrs. L. H. B. Jr., Trion, Ga.: There are no arbitrary rules governing progressive bridge. Each hostess should designate order of vulnerability and scoring rules most likely to be agreeable to player guests.

DOUBLE-DUMMY PROBLEM.

South leads the Club 5 and North discards the Spade Queen. South leads the Spade 8. West covers, North ruffing with the heart 2.

North leads the Diamond 2, won by South's King. South now leads the Club 2. West's subsequent plays are immaterial but East is squeezed first by the Club 2, Heart King, Spade 3.

Had West refused to cover the Spade 8 at the second trick, North ruffs South's Spade 3, and returns a diamond which South wins. South then plays heart, club, diamond.

Submit your own variations of play but make sure they are against any possible defense.

REBID SOLUTIONS.

(1) Pass and let opponents play the hand at one diamond. There is no need to rebid with partner passing.

(2) Double for a takeout, holding your plus honors and support for all unbid suits. When partner passes your opening suit bid, your doble is a takeout double. Having opened one notrump, the double is for penalties.

(3) Rebid the six-card club suit. The hand is not of the proper type for a takeout double.

'Til tomorrow .....

Mail your bridge problems to Harold Sharpsteen, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Fruit Juice, Good Source Of Vitamins B, C and G

By Dr. William Brady.

Some simple souls sternly take a dose of grapefruit, lemon or the juice thereof in the belief that it keeps one thin or even reduces corpulence. I wonder how this strange property came to be ascribed to grapefruit and lemon. Perhaps some sourface who had never been exposed to physiology imagined that the sourness caused a prodigious pucker to pass through the entire body and take up slack everywhere. The truth is that grapefruit or lemon is merely less nourishing and less fattening than say, ham and eggs or pancakes and maple syrup.

I have nothing in the world against lemons or grapefruit. In fact I grow 'em both (one tree each). But please don't ask me to eat or drink any lemon or grapefruit in any circumstance, except when a mere dash is mixed in with edible things, as in a fruit punch or cocktail or in a salad. Wherever a dish or a recipe calls for vinegar, I prefer lemon juice, because vinegar (dilute acetic acid) is not utilized as a food, but acts as an acid in metabolism, while lemon juice (dilute citric acid) is oxidized and utilized as a food in the body and leaves an alkaline residue or ash (alkaline carbonate). Try lemon juice in place of vinegar in salad dressings or as a condiment and you'll soon find that it is quite as pleasing and perhaps more acceptable to the stomach.

In nutritive value, that is, fuel value, calories, there is little difference between orange, lemon, grapefruit and pineapple—each yields approximately 200 to 225 calories per pound.

They tell me grapefruit grown hither and yon really is not bitter, but I'd almost swear nux vomica could be extracted from any I have ever tasted.

Of course, there is no objection that I know of, if you prefer grapefruit. No accounting for tastes. But I am happy to assure any one who isn't fond of it that orange or pineapple is equally effective from every point of view.

I urge all of our customers who are following the Corrective Protective Diet one, two or more days a week (don't interrupt now, send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for it, for rejuvenation to include a slice or two of pineapple or a glass of pineapple juice (without sugar added) in lieu of orange juice or grapefruit, if desired.

Pineapple is in the fresh state a good source of vitamins. Canned pineapple is still a good source of vitamins B and G and a fair source of C. Fresh raw pineapples contain a ferment which aids in the digestion of meat in either acid or alkaline medium.

The natural sugar in pineapple is about half cane sugar an half invert sugar (fruit sugar, levulose). In canning pineapple it is a common practice to fill the can with cane sugar syrups instead of the natural juice of the fruit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fibroid Tumor

Physician who is X-ray specialist examined me and said I have a uterine fibroid tumor. Can this be cured by X-ray? Another physician said I'd have to undergo an operation eventually. (Mrs. H. A. M.)

Answer—X-ray treatment will cure in many cases, if the sterility is not an objection.

Tremor

What makes one's hands shake and tremble and what is the remedy for it? (H. C.)

Answer — Parkinson's affection, exophthalmic goitre are two possible causes. Would it not be wise to have a thorough medical examination?

Woman's Quiz

Q. Please give me directions for frying soft-shelled crabs.

A. To dress the crab, take a sharp knife and cut off the segments that fold under the rear of the body. Turn the crab around and cut off the face from 1-2 to 3-4 inch back of the eyes. Lift each point at the sides and remove all of the gills. Wash the crab. Salt by dipping it into a solution made of 2 tablespoons of salt dissolved in 1 cup of water; let stand from 1 to 2 minutes, remove and let drip. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat (375 degrees F.); turn while cooking; remove, drain fat, and serve with tartar sauce.

Q. Should the skin of a newborn baby be washed immediately with soap and water?

A. It should first be rubbed with olive oil. The doctor will tell you whether or not a soap and water bath may safely be given immediately after the baby has been rubbed with oil. Vaseline or a light mineral oil may be used instead of olive oil.

Unfaithful Mate Wife's Greatest Disillusionment

By Caroline Chatfield.

Of all the hard decisions that fall to a woman's lot, to keep or not to keep the unfaithful husband must be the hardest. Hard because when she's stung with anger and tempted to vengeance her thinking apparatus doesn't work smoothly. Hard because her pride is wounded and her heart hurt and she doesn't know whom she loves. Hard because when her faith is shattered and the very foundations have crumbled under her feet, she dares not believe the fair promises which are always forthcoming from the husband about the future. And yet she's terrified at the thought of facing it alone.

Well she may be and then add some more terror for the future of the children. Their father divorced from their mother is estranged from them at best and though he may leave them with the fixed determination to do his full duty by them, another wife, another brood inevitably divert him. Here's the time when it's smart for a woman to take counsel of her fears.

A new husband, even if she had guarantee that he were coming up, would present new problems, different no doubt—but perplexing just the same. The disillusioning experience she has had with love and loyalty have left their smudge on her mind and according to a woman of my acquaintance who's been through the mill and back to the altar, she will never trust another man as implicitly as she trusted the first.

Then isn't it a wise wife who comes slowly to the decision to keep or not to keep the unfaithful husband, allowing time for anger to cool, time for sanity to return, time to think through the far reaching questions? Can I make a living? Can I give the children what they would have if I didn't break up my marriage? What would I gain by cutting loose? What would I lose?

Certainly she has the right to quit. Church, state and society accord her this privilege which, in itself, should be some satisfaction. But—she also has the opportunity to stay where she is, blink her tears, summon her courage, give the husband a chance to show his manhood and insure her children an unbroken family circle without which they are cripled for life.

If the great decision isn't made in the heat of anger, in the spirit of vindictiveness, the decision is usually to keep the unfaithful husband. I have never heard from one wife who clung to her husband and lived to regret it. But I have a pile of letters knee high from those who have struck when the iron was hot and to their sorrow seared themselves and all they loved.

Desirable Two-Piecer, Smart Detailing

By Barbara Bell.

The type you simply can't live without, this two-piece, tailored dress (1782-B) has the crisp lines and smart detailing so desirable in a fashion that gets such hard wear. It's impeccably smart for business, college, travel and general runabout. The skirt has a pretty, circular flare to it, and a convenient slashed pocket. The top is cut to points in the front, weskit-fashion, and buttons straight up to a high neckline. That plain neckline, by the way, is a great comfort, because you can dress it up so many ways—with scarfs, tailored collars, necklaces, flowers and brooches. And both the top and the skirt may be worn with other things, too.

Pique, sharkskin, gingham, linen, flat crepe are all smart materials for this design. It's easy to make.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1782-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 1 3-4 yards of 35-inch material for the waist with nap. 3 yards for the skirt without nap.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring and Summer Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Miss Angela Hopkins Becomes Bride of Mr. Shurley At Historic Christ Church on St. Simons Island

MRS. FLETCHER RUFF SHURLEY.

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga., Aug. 4.—In its picturesque setting beneath the mossy oaks at Frederica, historic Christ church here, was the scene of the ceremony at which Miss Angela Steuart Hopkins became the bride of Fletcher Ruff Shurley this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. John Bentley, of Augusta, acting rector of Christ church, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple from Brunswick, Saint Simons and Sea Island, in addition to a number who had come from other cities.

Waxy green smilax was featured in the church decoration, with clusters of pink gladioli effectively contrasting with the dark wood work in the church. George H. Cook, of Brunswick, organist, presented a musical program.

Misty blue lace combined with net was used for the gown worn by the maid of honor, Miss Mildred Kidd, of Decatur. Puffed sleeves and a square neckline accented at center-front by a blue velvet bow with streamers falling the length of the skirt were interesting features of the lace bodice. Lace godets lent fullness to the sweepingly full skirt. She wore a halo of matching net trimmed with velvet ribbon, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Little Miss Marianna Jones, of Sea Island, junior bridesmaid, wore a frock of pink lace and net made on similar lines to that of Miss Kidd. She wore a pink halo and carried a small bouquet of blue asters and valley lilies.

The bridesmaids wore gowns in pastel shades fashioned exactly like that of the maid of honor, and also made of lace combined with net. Miss Margaret Shurley, of Rock Hill, S. C., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Sue Cunningham, of Brunswick, wore matching dresses and halos of aqua and they carried bouquets of pink asters and valley lilies. Miss Mary Louise Lockwood, of Savannah, and Mrs. Wyley O'Quinn Jr., of Brunswick, wore peach costumes, carrying lavendar asters and valley lilies.

Mr. Shurley chose Bill Way, of Brunswick, as best man, while groomsmen and ushers included John Shurley, of Rock Hill, S. C., brother of the bridegroom, Steuart Hopkins, brother of the bride; Gordon Holmes and Mahlon Keifer, all of Brunswick.

In her wedding gown of starched lace worn over a fitted slip of silvery white satin, the lovely bride presented a striking picture as she was given in marriage by her brother, Robert R. Hopkins Jr. The bodice had soft fullness gathered into a smoothly fitted waistline, with the full skirt standing crisp and full from the waist, while puffed sleeves and a heart-shaped neckline were becoming features. The veil of tulle was caught to the bride's dark hair by a coronet featuring a motif of tiny hearts embroidered in pearls. Completing her costume was a lustrous strand of matched pearls. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Angela Hopkins, of Brunswick, mother of the bride, wore a gown of honey-colored lace and a hat of natural straw, both with japonica-shaded trim and with japonica accessories. Her shoulder spray was of talisman roses. Mrs. John R. Shurley, of Rock Hill, S. C., mother of the bridegroom, wore old rose lace, with black hat and accessories, and a shoulder spray of Johanna Hill roses.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Jones, with whom the bride has made her home for the past few years, entertained at a reception at Runnymede Light, their beach residence at Sea Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Shurley left for a wedding trip to New York and other eastern cities. Mrs. Shurley chose for traveling a two-piece suit of navy sheer with a tiny white pin stripe. Her matching hat was trimmed with a feather cluster. She wore navy accessories and a shoulder spray of valley lilies. On their return from the trip, Mr. and Mrs. Shurley will take possession of their house on Saint Simons Island.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. John R. Shurley Jr., of Colquitt; Harry Shurley, of Rock Hill, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kidd, and their sons, Lynn and Hopkins Kidd, of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Steuart, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Polzin, of Shreveport, La.; Mrs. Frances Hartridge, of White Plains, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lockwood, of Savannah; Mrs. Fred Howden, of Savannah; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Crown, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Barnwell, of Long Island, N. Y.

Miss Kathryn Benefield, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benefield, who was awarded the medal presented recently by Charles Loridans, to the best junior French student at Emory University summer school. Mr. Loridans, the French consul of Atlanta, presented the medal at a banquet held at Emory University in celebration of French Independence Day. Miss Benefield is a graduate of Girls' High school, and now attends Agnes Scott College.

Miss Evelyne Owens Becomes Bride of Calvin M. Browder Jr.

Miss Evelyne Elizabeth Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Owens, became the bride of Calvin Morris Browder Jr., also of Atlanta, at a ceremony solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Baptist tabernacle.

Rev. Joseph Crawley, of Atlanta, officiated and a program of music was presented by Mrs. Ione Wood, organist, and Mrs. Joseph Bray, vocalist.

Against a background of palms and greenery stood cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers. Pedestal baskets held white gladioli and family pews were marked with calla lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

Groomsmen and ushers were Fred Marvin Owens, brother of the bride; Merriott B. Reid, and J. Douglas Shields.

Mrs. F. M. Owens was matron of honor and Mrs. Merriott B. Reid and Mrs. Clayton Bloodworth were bridesmaids. Miss Beverly Joan Neville, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Bridesmaids were gowned alike in models of aquamarine lace and tulle posed over taffeta, featuring high empire waist lines, short puffed sleeves and full flowing skirts. They wore garlands of roses in their hair, and carried cascade bouquets of roses, delphinium and gladioli, tied with aqua satin ribbon.

The matron of honor wore a gown of pink lace and tulle made like those of the bridesmaids. Garlands of roses adorned her hair, and she carried a bouquet of roses, delphinium and gladioli tied with aqua satin ribbon.

The junior bridesmaid wore yellow tulle, and carried a colorful bouquet of pastel flowers.

Entering with her father, William Charles Owens, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride met the groom and his best man, Wilbur Culver, at the altar. Her brunette beauty was enhanced by her becoming wedding gown of white lace and tulle posed over rustling taffeta and featuring a drop shoulder neckline, empire waistline and flowing skirt. The skirt extended to form a train. Her finger-tip length veil of tulle fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley, orchid and white rubrum lilies tied with satin ribon. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls belonging to her mother.

Mrs. Owens, mother of the bride, wore a floor-length model of gray embroidered marquisette, and her shoulder spray was of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Browder, mother of the groom, wore blue lace and her flowers were pink roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Owens entertained at a reception at their home.

Mrs. W. T. Harrison kept the bride's book and Mrs. F. X. Poster presided at the punch bowl.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and adorned with white flowers. Candelabra holding white tapers flanked the centerpiece on either side.

Mr. and Mrs. Browder left for a wedding trip to Florida, the bride traveling in a japonica print dress trimmed with white lace, and worn with fall accessories. Her flowers were orchids.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Browder will reside here and will be popular additions to the younger married set.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr .and Mrs. F. X. Poster, of Columbus, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Ruston, of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. J. F. Flowers, of Seals, Ala., and Mrs. Luke H. Bottom, of High Point, N. C.

Nazi Persecution Blamed as Czech Mother, Children Plunge to Death

Chicago Hotel Suicide Cause Cited by Coroner's Jury; Weeping Jewish Father Recounts Story of Terror When 'Tyranny Forced Us To Become Refugees.'

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The death plunge of a mother and two children, who fled from Czecho-Slovakia after Adolf Hitler's troops had occupied the country, was attributed to Nazi "persecution" by a coroner's jury today.

The jurors decided Mrs. Adela Langer, 46, leaped from the thirteenth floor of the Congress hotel late last night with her two youngsters, Jan 4 1-2, and Karel, 6, "while temporarily insane due to worry over being forced to leave her home due to persecution."

The husband and father of the victims, Karel Langer, a slight, nervous Jew, whose eyes were ringed and reddened by grief, wept on the witness stand while he told how he abandoned home and fortune when "tyranny forced us to become refugees."

"Suicide Colony" Reported.

Later the city news bureau stated its reporters, while investigating the case, learned that a group of refugees of various faiths and nationalities and all living here on temporary visas had formed what its members termed a "suicide colony."

They called themselves "anschluss victims," it added, and expressed the belief self-destruction was preferable to return to their home lands.

Joseph Martinek, secretary of the Czecho-Slovak National Alliance, described the "suicide colony" report as "nonsense."

At the inquest, Langer, who spoke only the Czech language, related his tragic story through an interpreter. He reported he once was the principal owner of large textile mills but circumstances forced him to sell them.

"Practically Gave It Away."

"I practically gave it away to my oldest employes because I felt Hitler would seize it or order me to give it away," he testified. "We anticipated an order of confiscation by the government.

"We left our home land because of our children. We hoped to find opportunities to give them a better life."

The family came to the United States on July 1 on a six-month visitors' pass.

"Now they don't need any passports," Langer commented, "I don't know what I'm going to do. At first I was interested in finding a home in the United States, Bolivia or Canada. Now it doesn't make any difference."

GERMAN REFUGEE HANGS HIMSELF

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Albert Aaron, German refugee whose wife died July 12 of an overdose of sleeping tablets, was found hanging from the door of his apartment in Kew Gardens.

Police Detective Patrick Brennan said Aaron left a note to his sons, Daniel, 14, and Frank, 11, stating "I am going out of your life to meet your mother." Neighbors said the boys were attending a summer camp somewhere in New Jersey.

Aaron, 53-year-old attorney from Gilsse, near Frankfort, Germany, came here 22 months ago. Neighbors said he had been unemployed, and that the only relative of whom he ever spoke was a sister, Mrs. B. Katz, of Philadelphia.

TRIBUNAL WEIGHS OUSTER PETITION

Decision Today or Monday on Stephens Suit for Reid's Seat.

A three-judge tribunal of Fulton county superior court will hand down a decision today or Monday on the effort of Monroe Stephens, Blue Ridge attorney, to oust Chief Justice Charles S. Reid, of the Georgia supreme court, and have himself designated to the post.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore, who sat with Judges John D. Humphries, presiding, and Edgar E. Pomeroy during an all-morning hearing yesterday on the quo warranto proceedings initiated by Stephens, announced that the group will prepare a decision after it has conferred.

Stephens claims Reid's post by virtue of 814 write-in votes cast for him in the June 6 election. Under a ruling of the attorney general, the chief justice's position was not properly before the voters at that time and names of no candidates were carried on the ballot.

Stephens Argues Case.

Appearing as his own attorney, Stephens read lengthy code sections and cited authorities in his attempt to to show that he was legally elected to the post now held by Justice Reid under appointment by Governor Rivers.

Opposing Stephens was a group of former and present law partners of the chief justice, who also was present in the courtroom. Among them were Marion Smith, Arthur G. Powell, Carl N. Davie, B. D. Murphy, J. N. Frazer, M. F. Goldstein and J. K. Rankin.

Armed with more than 100 volumes of Georgia decisions and code books, Stephens contended that the state constitution unalterably gives the people the right to vote by ballot to fill vacancies in state offices.

Size of Vote Ridiculed.

He asserted that any "general election" is also a "regular election" under the law and that the post of chief justice should have been before the people last June, when he holds that he was elected.

Smith filed a general demurrer to Stephens' petition, and argued vigorously against Stephens' contention that an election to fill the post of the late Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr., was before the voters last June.

HEARING IS SLATED ON SCHOOL RATING

Superintendents To Discuss Loss of Accredited Status Here August 11.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

VIENNA, Ga., Aug. 4.—The State Board of Education will grant a hearing in Atlanta, August 11, to the superintendents of schools which were taken from the accredited list, J. R. JUNKED CARS PRESSED INTO BALE BY MACHINE

CORDELE, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Engineers of a Cordele manufacturing plant believe they have solved the problem of what to do with those metal skeletons of junked automobiles.

They have built a gigantic baling machine that provides 215 tons' pressure and squeezes the junked cars into packages.

The baling machine, weighing 20 tons, sold for $13,500 to a Louisville, Ky., scrap metal dealer.

Ten other presses of similar design and lighter weight are in use.

REFLECTIONS—A new musical and variety program, "Court of Reflections," featuring Jimmy Brierly, vocalist, and Dorothy Lee, actress, as well as Jack Joy's orchestra, from Treasure Island, site of the Golden Gate Exposition, in San Francisco Bay, begins with the broadcast to be heard over WGST at 9:15 o'clock tonight.

"Court of Reflection" features each week a dramatic vignette inspired by reflections in the pool in the Exposition Court of Reflections.

PLAYS—Sidney Lument, star of the recent Broadway hit "My Heart's in the Highlands," by William Saroyan, will play the lead in "The Brat," the second of three plays by Arch Oboler to be presented during the broadcast to be heard over WAGA at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

First drama in the group will be "Mr. Pip," with Ray Collins, outstanding stage and radio actor, in the lead role. "Rich Kid," originally played by Freddie Bartholomew and the "Dead End Kids" on the Rudy Vallee hour, will be repeated by popular request as the outstanding drama of the broadcast.

GOODMAN—Benny Goodman will bring his swing troupe to NBC's Hollywood studios for the Caravan broadcast to be heard over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight.

The band has just completed an engagement at the Golden Gate Exposition in San Francisco and will remain in Hollywood for the next three weeks.

VESPERS—James Morton, executive secretary of the Atlanta Evangelical Ministers' Association, will once more be at the helm of Community Vespers, weekly program sponsored jointly by the ministers' group and the Atlanta Community Chest. The program goes on the air over WAGA at 7 o'clock. It was formerly heard at 7:15 o'clock.

The Rev. Henry H. Jones, pastor of Grace Methodist church, tells of work of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association in its fight to eradicate the great white plague in Fulton and DeKalb counties. Musical numbers will be rendered by Mrs. J. D. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Cunningham.

Crackers Pound Out 20 Hits and Crush Pels, 19-5, in Opener

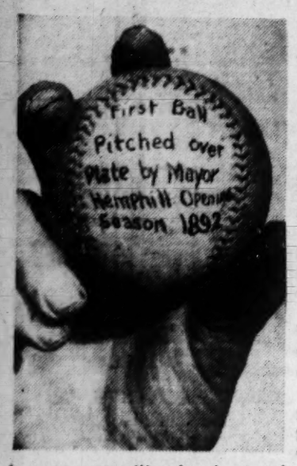
by Jack Troy

It is an inescapable fact—the important part The Constitution played in the formative days of the old Southern league. Henry Grady was the first president, back in 1885. The league went along for six years and then there was an interim in 1890-91 when no baseball was played.



When the league started up again in 1892, Atlanta celebrated with a new park—Brisbine park. William A. Hemphill then was business manager of The Constitution and also mayor of Atlanta.

Mayor Hemphill tossed out the first ball—the very ball pictured here—to dedicate the new park. From 1892 until 1896, the league played regularly, and again, from 1897 until 1900, there was a lapse of activity.

But southern folks began to miss their baseball. And so, for the third time the league was reorganized, in 1901, and has gone steadily ahead ever since without missing a season.

Like Henry Grady, Mayor Hamphill was an ardent baseball follower. And it was on April 26, 1892, that he was proud to dedicate a new field for the Atlantas.

The old files show that—

"Macon beat the Atlantas in brand-new Brisbine park, 6 to 3.

"Mayor Hemphill arose and tossed a new ball into the diamond.

"Manager Maskrey's boys had won six and lost three on the road.

"Macon's first win spoiled the Atlanta opener before a glittering crowd of 3,000.

"But the Atlantas' opening day was a grand one. Brass bands with laughing, happy people, made the dedication of Brisbine park a decidedly attractive one."

The old ball is still in good shape today and probably will be used in the Cavalcade of Baseball pageant this month at Ponce de Leon park.

"COUNTRY BOY" MAKES GOOD.

It was several weeks ago that Z. L. Klein, of Thomaston, wrote in telling about a local pitcher whom the Red Sox had signed. He wrote glowingly of the pitcher's size and ability but failed to mention his name.

And so yesterday, in another letter from Klein, the boy's identity was revealed for the first time.

"Dear Sir:

"Some time ago you asked me the name of the pitcher signed by the Red Sox.

"Well, if you will get this week's Sporting News you'll find his name is Claude Shoemake, pitching for Danville, Va., in the Bi-State league.

"He has won three and lost none—not bad for a country boy.

"Tell Earl Mann we have another boy down here now that can win for the Crackers now. Many thanks."

Editor's Note: Since Mr. Mann is no more interested in pitchers who can win than he is in eating regularly, he may make a note of it.)

Pair of Dead Heats At Thistledown Oval

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The third race at Thistledown track ended today in a pair of dead heats, with Blue Play and My Corinne tied for first, and Giggle Lee and Precious Oy tied for show. Blue Play and My Corinne romped across the finish line in 1:06 3-5. The race, for a $500 purse, was a claiming event for two-year-old maidens.

Veteran track observers could not remember a similar finish in racing history.

The two winners had a half-length advantage over the second dead heat pair.

My Corinne paid $8.80 and Blue Play, $5.80.

M'NEILL, PARKER DEFEAT BOBBITT AND F. GUERNSEY

Bob Riggs Drops Two Sets, Rallies To Trim Kamrath.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4. (AP)—America's unhappy Davis cup outlook grew no brighter today as Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, entered the final round of the forty-ninth annual Meadow Club invitation tournament with a hollow 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Bob Kamrath, of Austin. Riggs' opponent tomorrow, for the second successive year, will be Sidney Wood, who was equally unimpressive in defeating Ernest Sutter, of New Orleans, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

If Bobby, the present Wimbledon champion, prevails over Wood, 1931 Wimbledon champion, it will give him the third leg on the $1,000 challenge bowl, and permanent possession. When the two met last year the No. 2 singles post on the Davis cup team hung in the balance, but the veteran Wood has admitted he is out of the running this time. Riggs beat Wood in straight sets in 1938.

The doubels team of Don McNeill and Frankie Parker gained the final round, but rain interrupted the match between Riggs and Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Oregon, who trailed Bill and Chester Murphy, of Chicago, 11-13, 4-2. McNeill and Parker defeated Frank Guernsey Jr., of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, 6-2, 5-7, 7-9, 6-4, 6-2.

Riggs disappointed everyone with a wretched service. Kamrath, who has been playing indifferent tennis all summer, took all sorts of liberties with Riggs' first offering, and chased Bobby all over court from the basline.

But in working his way to the net, Kamrath discovered that Riggs outplayed him there repeatedly. Nevertheless, he refused to abandon the barrier, even after losing a string of vital points there.

Wood had none of his usual speed against Sutter, except at the beginning, when Sutter made him change his tactics by handling Sid's blistering drives in facile fashion. But Wood's greater tournament experience and his sharper control in the clutches militated finally against the Louisiana youth.

Parker was easily the best doubles man on the court today. His peculiar arching service permitted only a soft return which either he or McNeill usually stowed away. The engagement was prolonged, however, by McNeill's erratic efforts.

Marble and Jacobs Gain Women's Finals.

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Miss Alice Marble, national and Wimbledon champion, heading the seeded list of the annual Invitation Women's tournament, had an easy task today in defeating Miss Dorothy Workman, of Los Angeles, seeded No. 4, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, to enter the final round.

Miss Marble will meet Miss Helen Jacobs in the final round tomorrow.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Brookline, Mass., seeded No. 2, was less fortunate in her quarter-final match which she extended to three gruelling sets before losing to Miss Jacobs, 8-6, 5-7, 6-3.

Guesses About Pilot Are Premature—Mann

"The guessing as to what we are going to do in another year is a bit premature," President Earl Mann, of the Crackers, said yesterday regarding a published report that Manager Paul Richards is signed for 1939.

"Richards' present contract has until December 31 to go. When the time comes the management will announce any tendering of a new contract."

INDIAN VICE PRESIDENT SEES CRACKERS WALLOP PELICANS

Cleveland Executive Interested in Peters

Cy Slapnicka, vice president and general manager of the Cleveland Indians, admitted last night he was here not only to see the New Orleans club with which Cleveland has a close working agreement but also to talk about a Cracker or two.

The Indians are interested in Russ Peters and there is a good chance that John Rucker last night caught the eye of the Cleveland executive.

Peters is for sale—for fall delivery—but Rucker won't be for sale for another season.

G. VALLEBUONA LOSES, 6-2, 9-7

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Second-seeded John Hyden, of Nashville, last year's runner-up, bowed to fifth-ranked Dan Canale, of Memphis, today in the quarter-final round of the state tennis tournament.

Advancing to the semi-finals with Canale were Jack Rodgers, Knoxville, seeded No. 3; Alex Guerry, Chattanooga, No. 4, and unranked Wilford Gragg, Memphis.

Another upset was registered in the women's division when top-seeded Gladys Vallebuona, Atlanta, dropped a semi-final match to Frances Grossnickle, hard-hitting stroker from Columbus, Miss, 6-2, 9-7.

Fancy Pitching Proves Yankees Can Be Beat

Cincinnati's Hurling Could Baffle McCarthy Nine in Next World Series—Maybe.

By WHITNEY MARTIN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A private impression is growing that when, or maybe it still should be if, the Yankees meet the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series this fall the McCarthymen will be anything but the sure things they have been rated in recent years.

The idea is based on the suspicion that the New York club has an Achilles' heel, and that faced by good pitching it is just another ball club trying to get along. And the Reds' pitching staff isn't exactly tossing quoits this season.

The recent series with Detroit, in which the Tigers took two out of three, added to the impression that, while the Yanks might tee off a little better than any other team when the opposing hurlers are tossing in home run balls, a clever pitcher can make them look like Mother Hubbard.

ROWE MASTER.

The manner in which Schoolboy Rowe made Joe DiMaggio and his teammates beat a patch back and forth from the bench to the plate was a caution. Bill Dickey got hold of one for a home run, and DiMaggio got a loud foul which missed being good for the circuit by a few feet, but otherwise the Schoolboy was the teacher, and the Yanks didn't know the answers.

Rowe hasn't been setting the league afire this year, but that day he was a master. His change of pace baffled, leaving the batsmen often looking very silly indeed as they poked too soon or too late at a ball, like a man reaching for a straw hat just as it sails under a truck.

In one inning three New Yorkers went down on strikes as the tall, gangling Schoolboy, his long jaw wagging almost continually in futile protest against the plate umpire's decisions, nipped the corners with that stuttering delivery.

NOT EXAMPLE.

That game was not an isolated example of how a good pitcher can silence the Yankee bats. The New Yorkers looked at some pretty fair chunking when they met the Red Sox not so long ago, and the Red Sox took five straight.

Naturally the argument is that the Yankees have managed to win quite a few games, but the answer to that is that a goodly portion of their victories can be traced to a defense second to none, and some fair country pitching on the

LYNCH ANNEXES ATHENS TOURNEY

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Rallying in the last two sets, Fred Lynch, of Gainesville, won the inaugural Crackerland tennis tournament and the "Bitsy" Grant trophy today by defeating Jud Fowler, of Atlanta, 6-2, 1-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Seeded fourth in the pairings, Lynch accomplished the major upset of the tournament Thursday by beating No. 1 favorite Charley Evans. Fowler was second seeded.

After capturing the first set, Lynch faltered today and for a while it looked as though Fowler would win.

In the fourth set, however, with having won three games, Lynch found his game again and crashed through Fowler's service to win.

Fred Wilkerson and Cody Laird, of Atlanta, won the doubles championship from John Stephens and Bob Anders, of Hendersonville, N. C., in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4. Emory Rose Wood, of Athens, defeated Ann Smith, also of Athens, 6-3, 6-4, for the women's singles title.

JOHNNY RUCKER DRIVES IN 4 RUNS; HARRIS PITCHES

New Orleans Aids Atlanta Cause by Contributing Seven Miscues.

By JACK TROY.

Luman Harris turned in his 13th victory of the season last night and the Crackers got their most runs and most hits of any game of the season in giving the New Orleans Pels a 19-5 drubbing in the opening game of the series.

Tom Drake started against the Crackers, who were full of fire, and they exploded in the very first inning, staging a four-hit attack, plus Drake's wildness, to score five runs.

Nat Love relieved Drake to retire the side in the first and was himself the victim of an even more devastating bombardment in the fourth when 11 Crackers came to bat. It was almost a case of Love at first sight.

The sordid details of the inning include seven runs and six hits.

MALTZBERGER SHELLED.

Then Gordon Maltzberger, former Cracker, took over the pitching in the fifth inning and he was good for seven more runs and 10 more hits before it was over.

Meanwhile, Harris went along up to the fifth without giving up a hit. The Pels got to him slightly in the fifth and scored three runs. But Harris was pretty stingy the rest of the way, allowing only two more and giving up only nine hits in a game which encouraged coasting.

Amazing thing about the big-scoring affair was that it required only two hours for completion, and there was, of course, a lot of action.

New Orleans aided the Crackers by committing seven errors.

LOT OF HITTING.

The Crackers collected 20 hits. Of this number, Stan Sperry, Russ Peters, John Rucker and Manager Paul Richards secured three each. Richards got two in the big fourth.

Rucker drove in four runs, Peters three, Burge and Richards two each. Willie Duke drove in four runs. Mailho, Rubeling and Burge scored three each.

There was a hitting star on the Pel side. He was Oetting, whom the Crackers traded for Duke. He collected three hits, one a double. Duke also hit a double.

There were seven doubles—two by Burge and others by Rucker, Klumpp, Bedore, Duke and Oetting. Nary a homer or triple was seen.

SLAPNIKA THERE.

Cy Slapnika, vice president and general manager of the Cleveland Indians, here on two missions—one to talk business with the Pel people and the other to talk with Earl Mann about a couple of Crackers—couldn't get much of a line on Pel players. But he must have been mightily impressed by what certain Crackers showed.

Second game of the series is scheduled at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Frank Gabler will pitch for the Crackers and Don Pulford or Sid Cohen will work for the Pels.

Briton Beats Leopold ---- In Golf Match

Clark Griffith Imports Another Tongue Twister for Nats

LE ZOUTE, Belgium, Aug. 4. (AP)—After beating a local hotel keeper on the 19th hole in the first round, King Leopold was eliminated today in the Belgium amateur golf championship at the same hole by P. J. Clive, son of the British ambassador.

The King, the first reigning monarch to compete in the championship, ran into bad luck. At the 18th his drive rolled near a gate and he had a bad lie on the 19th where his drive stuck in the soggy turf.

LATEST IS PALAGYI.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A low moan rose in the composing rooms of the capital's newspapers as Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, announced he was bringing in another typographical terror.

Newest of the tongue twisters is Mike Palagyi—a six-foot, right-handed pitcher from the Spartanburg (S. C.) club of the Sally league.

Griffith's first string catcher of the moment is Angelo Giuliani, which is quite a mouthful. To confuse the issue, the ball park scorecards spell his name Guiliani.

Last year the Senators started using as a regular pitcher one Joseph Victor Lawrence Krakauskas, a Lithuanian from Hamilton, Ontario.

From Cuba Griffith got Rene Monteagudo, Roberto Ortiz and Roberto Estallella, who is never certain whether the two l's should come before the second e or after it.

From Venezuela Griffith purchased one Alejandro Carrasquel. It was too much. The printers on one newspaper begged for relief and their sports department compromised by calling him just Alexandra.

Baron Handy Man.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., AUG. 4. (AP)—LEO OGOREK, THE BARON HANDY MAN WHO HAS PLAYED SIX POSITIONS WITH THE BIRMINGHAM CLUB THIS SEASON, WILL BE GIVEN A CHANCE AT TWO OF THE OTHER THREE POSITIONS WHEN THE BARONS MEET ATLANTA HERE NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT.

OFFICIALLY DESIGNATED AS "OGOREK NIGHT," FANS WILL SEE THE BARON UTILITY PLAYER AT EACH POSITION ON THE FIELD EXCEPT ON THE PITCHER'S MOUND.

OGOREK HAS PLAYED SECOND, THIRD, ALL THREE OUTFIELD POSITIONS AND WAS MADE INTO A CATCHER WHEN JACK CROUCH WAS PLACED ON THE VOLUNTARILY RETIRED LIST SEVERAL DAYS AGO.

WHETHER OGOREK CAN PITCH WILL REMAIN A MYSTERY UNLESS A LEAGUE RULE PROHIBITING THE USE OF OTHER PLAYERS AS PITCHERS IS RESCINDED FOR THE OCCASION.

HEAVY SPENDER.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Louis B. Mayer, motion picture magnate who has spent $300,000 in the past year acquiring a racing stable, announced today he was withdrawing from competition in California and prepared to leave for Saratoga track in New York.

A representative said Mayer was dissatisfied with the weights assigned his horses and other actions of tracks in this state. The spokesman did not explain what the other actions were and declined to amplify the statement.

The film producer was a heavy purchaser at auctions this year and last, spending some $100,000 on young horses. His acquisitions included a number of promising two-year-olds.

HEADS UP BALL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—An attempt to set a new record for catching a baseball dropped from a great height cost Joe Sprinz, veteran catcher for the Pacific Coast league San Francisco Seals, a compound jaw fracture, the loss of eight teeth and ragged lacerations of both lips.

At a celebration of baseball day at the Golden Gate exposition yesterday, five baseballs were dropped 800 feet from a blimp cruising over Treasure Island.

Four balls fell out of range. Sprinz circled under the fifth and held his glove up. The ball struck the glove with terrific force, and the glove smashed against his face. He dropped to the ground in great pain and failed to hang onto the baseball.

Tough Stuff.

EARLY BRANCH, S. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—This village of 160 persons claims at least two distinctions:

The smallest town in South Carolina with a golf course; and a course on which no golfer has equaled the par 28 for the nine holes—despite nine years of effort.

DANGEROUS REBOUND.

WAGENER, S. C., AUG. 4.—(AP) GOLFER WHILTON WILLIAMS WAS POLISHING UP HIS DRIVING GAME. HE SMACKED THE BALL HARD AGAINST A BUILDING. IT BOUNDED BACK AND SENT HIM TO A HOSPITAL WITH A PROBABLE SKULL FRACTURE.

Passeau Blanks Bees on Four Hits; Clift's Homer Beats A's

BELL'S SINGLE IN 11TH DEFEATS NEW YORK, 3-2

Bucky Walters Wins 19th Game as Reds Stop Dodgers, 5-3.

By The Associated Press.

Claude Passeau shaded Lou Fette in a pitchers' battle yesterday, giving the Chicago Cubs a 1-to-0 victory over the Boston Bees in their series opener.

Passeau yielded only four hits and gave no walks in chalking up his ninth mound decision.

Three times during the game Passeau was warned against using the illegal spitball by the umpires after Boston batters had complained about the pitcher's offerings.

The game's only run came in the third inning when Stan Hack walked, went to third on Billy Herman's single and scored on Augie Galan's sacrifice fly.

It was the Cubs' sixth win in their last eight games.

Fern Bell's single with the bases loaded in the eleventh inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-to-2 victory over the New York Giants in their series opener. The Giants were held scoreless after Mel Ott homered with one on in the first inning.

After spotting Philadelphia a 7-to-0 lead, the St. Louis Cardinals rallied to tie the score in the ninth inning and win out in the thirteenth, 9 to 8. Joe Medwick drove in the winning run with a double.

Bucky Walters broke the Reds' two-game losing streak last night by subduing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3, for his 19th victory of the season. Dolf Camilli hit his 17th home run for the Dodgers.

WILD-LIFE MEN START SCHOOL

Prospective game protectors went to school yesterday to study wrestling, boxing, public speaking, woodcraft, fish, game, trees, soil erosion, streams and many other subjects designed to help them protect Georgia's wild life and educate Georgians to be sportsman-minded.

The 97 "students," survivors of about 2,000 original candidates, were called to order in the opening class of a two-week clinic under direction of Charles Elliott, director of the state wild life division. After studying and hearing lectures two weeks, they are to take final examinations on how best to protect and conserve game and fish.

Boxing and wrestling were designed to select the most able-bodied men who could handle themselves against game violators without using a gun. They studied speaking to prepare themselves for public appearances in spreading an educational game program. Knowledge of wild life laws and their enforcement were essential.

The successful candidates will know how to feed wild life and how to prevent stream pollution. Speakers were called to tell them how to know birds and fish, and about wild life's relation to forests. Motion pictures were prepared to aid in the studies.

Approximately 60 protectors will be selected for the state jobs on a merit system. Their pay will range from $125 to $150 monthly.

DIXIE LEAGUE.

Oakland City will attempt to overthrow the Gas Company nine at Oakland City this afternoon to stop the Dixie league leaders from their winning streak. Oakland has won two out of six. Underwood and Southern Railway are also slated for a good game at Piedmont park. The Railroaders defeated Underwood, 7 to 1, in the first round of this half. All games will start at 3:30 o'clock.

THE SCHEDULE.

Underwood vs. Southern Railway at S. W. Piedmont. Umpire O. L. Harris.
N. C. & St. L. vs. Wesleyan at waterworks. Umpire Vickery.
Gas Company vs. Oakland City. Umpire Patrick.

ATLANTA COMMERCIAL LEAGUE.

Merita Bakeries and Central Cafe, which are tied for the lead of the Atlanta Commercial league, will meet tough assignments this afternoon. Merita meets Decatur at J. A. White and Central Cafe meets White Provision at Almand park. All games will start at 3:30 o'clock.

THE SCHEDULE.

Decatur vs. Merita at J. A. White. Umpires Shi and Hammock.
Hapeville vs. Dixiesteel at Glenn field.
Central Cafe vs. White Provision at Almand park. Umpires Scott and Harris.

GEORGIA LEAGUE.

While Adamsvile, undefeated leaders of the Georgia league, draws a bye this afternoon, the Bricklayers and General Shoe will fight it out for second place at Kirkwood. Each has won four and lost two. Fickett-Brown will meet Panthersville in the other scheduled game in the league. All games will start at 3:30 o'clock.

THE SCHEDULE.

Bricklayers vs. General Shoe at Kirkwood. Umpire Casey.
Fickett-Brown vs. Panthersville at Panthersville. Umpire Allen.
Adamsville vs. bye.

A. A. B. A.

With three sets of games left on the regular schedule of the A. A. B. A. leagues the race for the second-half honors is getting hotter and hotter. No champion is indicated in any league from the appearance of the league standings. First division teams meet the cellar occupants in the Scott league this week, so the situation will probably not change here over the week end.

Mt. Zion and Arrow Shirts play the feature game of the Atlanta league Saturday. The Shirts have lost only one game in three weeks, but the odds favor Zion. Predictions are far from safe. National Biscuit, the other league leader, meets the lowly Miller Service boys, who are on the bottom rung of the ladder.

First division meets second division again in the City Textile league as Fulton Bag, Exposition and Whittier are matched up against Scottdale, Piedmont and Milstead. Milstead will save a little strength for their mid-week game with Fulton Bag, which comes on Wednesday.

Piedmont Mills will play Fulton Bag Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock for the first-half title in the Textile league. Each team has won one game in the three-game series, and this one will tell the tale. They tied for honors in the first half. Dick Dodgen will umpire.

Two more make-up games will be played Wednesday. Whittier will play at Exposition Mills with Moon umpiring, and Fulton Bag plays Milstead at Milstead with Dowda umpiring.

YANKEES CRASH 12 HITS TO TOP INDIANS, 5 TO 4

Nats Defeat White Sox, 6-5, in 10 Innings.

By The Associated Press.

Harlond Clift's homer in the eighth which broke a 1-1 tie and George McQuinn's run on Joe Glenn's fly in the ninth with the bases loaded, gave the St. Louis Browns a 3-to-1 victory over the Athletics yesterday.

Three of the five hits the Cleveland Indians got off Oral Hildebrand and Marius Russo were home runs, but these weren't enough to offset a 12-hit barrage which the world champion Yankees laid down for a 5-to-4 victory in the first game of their series.

Washington beat Chicago, 6 to 5, in 10 innings. Charley Gelbert led off in the tenth with a triple and scored a moment later when Jimmy Bloodworth's short fly dropped safely between two White Sox outfielders.

The Red Sox are the only American league club with an edge on Bob Feller.

WHAT DOES Satisfying MEAN IN A BEER?

IT takes a satisfying beer to top off a midnight snack properly—and that means a rare combination of qualities . . . amber-clear sparkle to satisfy the eye—fine aroma to give a foretaste of the pleasure that is coming—full-bodied, mellow flavor to satisfy the most critical taste.

To make a beer truly satisfying is no easy task. It calls for the finest malt and hops, for ceaseless care in brewing, for long, patient aging. Completely satisfying beer can be brewed in only one way—the slow, expensive way—the way in which Atlantic Beer is brewed.

Pour yourself a golden glass of Good Old Atlantic Beer—note its gleaming brilliance, its rich, creamy head, its tempting aroma. Then drink it—slowly—so that you get the full benefit of its dry, refreshing flavor, its mellow richness, its all 'round satisfying goodness.

Good Old Atlantic Beer costs you only ten cents a bottle and you cannot buy finer beer no matter how much you pay. Only the strategic locations of our five Southern breweries—eliminating the expense of long, costly shipments—make the low price possible.

City Amateur Practice Starts

OFFICIAL DRILLS TO OPEN SUNDAY AT DRUID HILLS

Club Tournaments, Bogey Events Prepare Players for City Meet.

By ROY WHITE.

Atlanta's annual city amateur championship golf tournament Wednesday through Sunday will command the attention of more than 200 players until after the tournament is completed.

Practicing for the city tourney already has started, though not officially. The Druid Hills course will be closed to its members at noon Sunday until after the 1939 city champion has been crowned.

Dr. Julius Hughes, in addition to his many duties as president of the Atlanta Golf Association, sponsoring the tournament and chairman of the Druid Hills entertainment committee, will defend his crown in one of the fastest fields ever entered in a city tourney.

The one advantage Dr. Hughes will have is that he will be playing on his home course, though that doesn't seem to be any advantage with the new crop of amateur stars battling their way towards championships.

Practice for the city tournament will officially open at 1 o'clock Sunday on the Druid Hills course and continue through Tuesday.

The qualifying round will be played on Wednesday with match play scheduled during the remainder of the week.

Qualifying Ends Today At Capital City.

Although the city tournament comes first, there will be a number of other important matters to be settled today and Sunday at the various private clubs.

Capital City golfers will complete the qualifying round today for their annual club championship tournament. The tourney will be completed on August 26, just a few days before the annual Capital City invitation tournament starts.

East Lake Cards Tourney and Bogey.

All first-round matches in the annual East Lake Club championship tournament must be completed this afternoon. The players may select either course for the matches.

Today's first round matches fill the East Lake schedule with the blind bogey in progress and practicing for the city tourney.

Ragsdale, Clark Clash at West End.

Dawson Ragsdale and Mel Clark will battle 36 holes Sunday afternoon on the West End course for the President's trophy tournament.

A two-day blind bogey also has been planned for West End members over the week end.

First Round Ends At John A. White.

All first-round matches in the John A. White municipal club championship are scheduled to be completed over the week end. The second round starts Tuesday and must be completed next week.

Nat Kaiser Meet Starts at Aansley.

Ansley Park will have its usual blind bogey and first-round matches in the annual Nat Kaiser Memorial trophy tournament.

Blind Bogey Set At Druid Hills.

In lieu of the city tournament next week, Harry Stevens has planned nothing except a blind bogey for Druid Hills members over the week end.

part of their own men.

All of which doesn't mean that McCarthy's batting order isn't dangerous from Frank Crosetti on down, but it does mean that they have as much trouble against good pitching as the Elm Street Tigers. They are just a little more potent against poor pitching than their American league rivals, that's all.

And when, or again, if, they go against the Walters and the Derringers and the Thompsons Bill McKechnie can toss in against them, they are going to need all their defensive skill and the best performances of their Ruffings and Donalds.

Enid Nine Swamps Shoemakers, 17 to 4

DENVER, Col., Aug. 4.—Enid, Okla., shelled four Buford pitchers here tonight for a 17-4 victory and remained the only undefeated team in the Denver Post semi-pro baseball tournament. The Shoemakers were previously undefeated.

George Hooks started on the mound for the Bufords but was a victim of a five-run outburst in the first inning. He was followed by Manager Abe White, Alex McCaskill and finally Mercer Harris, a third baseman.

Two defeats are necessary for elimination.

TO DEFEND CITY GOLF CROWN

Dr. Julius Hughes will defend his city golf championship next week on the Druid Hills course. Dr. Hughes is the only player ever to win both the Atlanta and Georgia titles the same year. He won both last year. In practicing for the city, Julius has played some six or eight rounds consecutively under par.

VOLS TROUNCE BIG BESSE, 7 TO 4

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The upsurging Nashville Vols blasted out a 7-to-4 victory tonight over the league-leading Memphis Chicks in the first of a four-game crucial series.

The victory, fashioned at the expense of lanky Herman Besse, the Chicks' $50,000 southpaw, narrowed the leaders' margin to five and a half games.

Besse's vulnerability was exposed in the opening frame when he was greeted with successive singles by Charley Gilbert and Woody Williams, both of whom scored.

Then, in the sixth, the Vols batted around, producing five singles and a double which netted five runs and sent Besse to the showers.

Sam Nahem, newcomer to the Vol hurling corps, was credited with his third victory although he was touched for a four-master by Sid Gautreaux, Chick catcher, in the 4th, and was driven to cover in the eighth when he uncorked two wild pitches, walked one and hit one batsman.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 4.—After a rocky start the Lookouts tightened their defense tonight and overcame Birmingham's early lead to win, 5 to 3. The Barons carried a two-run lead into the fifth inning when Chattanooga got to Lieber and scored three runs. Tubb did effective relief hurling but Red Lucas was bearing down to hold the Barons through the remainder of the game.

DREAM RACE MAY PIT JOHNSTOWN AND CHALLEDON

Maryland Jockey Club Talks of East-West Battle.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Talk was in the wind today about a Pimlico special "dream race" that might settle not only the Johnstown-Challedon feud but also the issue between the east's and the west's favorite horses.

The Maryland Jockey Club, which staged the famous Seabiscuit-War Admiral duel at Pimlico last year, has not yet arranged a special for this fall's meeting, but turfmen hereabouts are discussing the possibilities of a five-horse, invitation race.

Interest was whetted today when the club announced it had received word from Charles S. Howard, California sportsman whose 'Biscuit whipped the Admiral, that his speedy Argentine importation, Kayak 2d, would be available if another special develops.

Howard wrote that Kayak 2d, winner of the Hollywood gold cup in the track record time of 2:02 3-5 for the mile and a quarter, would arrive east in time for the Narragansett special next month and remain for the Pimlico meeting opening November 1.

Others mentioned as likely to be invited to compete in the Pimlico Special are William Woodward's Kentucky Derby winner, Johnstown; W. L. Brann's Preakness winner, Challedon; Millsdale Stable's Sun Lover, which ran second to Challedon and ahead of Johnstown in the Arlington classic, and T. B. Martin's Cravat, which ran next to Kayak II in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

This lineup would give Johnstown and Challedon a chance to settle their personal feud for three-year-old honors against their up-and-coming rival, Sun Lover, pit Kayak II against the east's best, and afford Cravat an opportunity to avenge his Gold Cup defeat.

JONES DEFEATS GORE, ASHURST

Mrs. David Jones established herself as favorite in the first annual West End women's tennis championships yesterday by winning two matches and entering the semi-final round.

Mrs. Jones, fourth seeded because of her late entry, whipped Mrs. Howard Gore, 6-1, 6-1, and then conquered Ann Ashurst, 7-5, 6-0.

Mrs. Sybil Still provided the first upset when she eliminated third-seeded Mrs. Starr Ingram, 9-11, 6-2, 6-3. Top-ranked Mrs. Etta Taylor Coyne entered the semi-finals with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Peggy Smith and second-seeded Florence Camp eliminated Ninette Payne, 6-0, 6-2.

Mrs. Jones plays Mrs. Still while Camp plays Mrs. Coyne in the semi-finals today.

Results in the mixed doubles yesterday: Coyne-Coyne beat Stacy-Stacy, 6-4, 7-5. Ashurst-Barrett beat Coyne-Coyne, 10-8, 6-4. Collins-Ingram beat Sudan Philffer, 6-1, 6-4. Williamson-Wilkerson beat Hall-Hunt, 6-4, 6-2. Bienvenu-Still beat Posey-Camp, 6-8, 6-0, 6-3. Hill-O'Bryan beat Teagle-Simmons, 6-1, 6-3. Collins-Ingram beat Wilkerson-Williamson.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

3 o'clock, Coyne vs. Still; 4 o'clock, Jones vs. Camp; 5 o'clock, Ashurst-Barrett vs. Collins-Ingram; 6 o'clock, Bienvenu-Still vs. Hill-O'Bryan.

Plays Game, Welcomes Wife, Sent to Minors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP) This is one of baseball's sad stories.

Outfielder Bob Loane, who has been playing professional baseball for six years, got his first chance in the big league last week when Washington brought him from its Springfield (Mass.) farm.

Yesterday he played the full game against St. Louis Browns. After the contest he rushed to union station to meet his young wife who had come to join him in the big league city.

A few minutes later, the Senators informed Loane that he was going back to the minors.

Pastors Will Prepare for Revivals

Jesus' Teachings as Way to Salvation Dominate Sunday Sermon Themes for Local Churches.

The teachings of Jesus Christ as a means to salvation will dominate the themes of sermons from Atlanta pulpits tomorrow as a majority of ministers prepare their congregations for a series of evangelical meetings scheduled during the latter part of the summer and early fall.

Lakewood Christian church will begin an old-time gospel outdoor revival, the service being conducted under auspices of the "Four-O-Six" Club. Preaching will be by the Rev. G. W. Cox and the Rev. C. L. Durham, pastor.

Olive Springs Baptist church, on the Austell road two miles south of Marietta, also will inaugurate a revival, with preaching at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and at 8 o'clock at night by the Rev. A. C. Holbrook.

Orthodox religious texts will be the motif of various sermons in city churches. At Capitol View Baptist church, the Rev. W. Lee Cutts will preach at the 11 o'clock service on "When Religion Comes Alive," and at night on "Remaking Your Life." At the First Baptist church, Dr. Ellis A. Fuller will preach at 11 o'clock on "I Am the Way, the Truth and the Life." His topic at night will be "A Man Beholding His Natural Face in a Glass."

Evangelist John Cobb will have charge of both services at Second Baptist church, Hapeville, speaking in the morning on "I Go to Prepare a Place for You," and at night on "In Hell He Lifted Up His Eyes." At Central Baptist church, the Rev. Paul A. Meigs has selected as his themes, "The Foundation of the Church" at the morning hour, and "Jesus Paid It All," at night.

At Kirkwood Baptist church, Dr. K. Owen White, pastor, will preach in the morning on "Pleasing God," while the night sermon will be delivered by the Rev. R. S. Cooper, his topic being "God's Last Message to Man; at Grant Park Baptist church, the Rev. R. D. Walker, "The Wrong Way," at 11 a. m.; the Baptist Tabernacle, Dr. Sam Lawton, guest minister, "The Bible, a Letter From Home," and "Jesus, The Leader."

At Edgewood Baptist church, Dr. Lester A. Brown, pastor, will preach on "A Revival of Religion," and "Remaking of Life"; Calvary Baptist church, the Rev. J. Herman Gresham, "Trumpeting the Gospel," and "God Exposes Sham."

Decatur First Methodist, the Rev. J. W. O. McKibben, pastor, "The Risen Christ" and "Gather Up the Fragments"; Decatur Presbyterian, the Rev. D. P. McGeachy, D. D., pastor, "The Good News About Your Salvation" and "Repentance Unto Life."

At Inman Park Methodist church, the Rev. Peter Manning, pastor, with "Modern Slaves," at the night service, launches a series of Sunday night revivals. At Westminster Presbyterian church, the Rev. Sidney Gates, D. D., pastor of First Presbyterian church, Covington, Ga., will speak at the morning hour on "For Sinners Only."

Special features have been planned by other denominations. At First Baptist church, College Park, Dr. William Fetler, pastor of one of the largest Baptist churches in eastern Europe, and the members of his family—his wife and 12 children—will present a program of music at the morning hour. Dr. Fetler, who comes from Riga, Latvia, also will preach at the night service at Grant Park Baptist church and will join with his family in presenting a musical program.

Dr. Luther Rice Christie, a former pastor of Ponce de Leon Baptist church, now Second-Ponce de Leon, and at present pastor of the First Baptist church at Tallahassee, Fla., will have charge of both services at Capitol Avenue Baptist church, while at First Methodist the Rev. Carl Adkins will supply the pulpit in place of the pastor, Dr. Edward G. Mackay, at the morning hour, his topic being "Locked in the Tabernacle." There will be no night service.

At Trinity Methodist church the morning service will be conducted by the Rev. Benjamin H. Smith, of the American Bible Society, in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Paul A. Turner, who is vacationing in Florida.

Dr. W. H. LaPrade, of Atlanta, will be guest speaker at the morning service at Calvary Methodist church, while at night a pageant, "Love Never Faileth," will be presented by the adult division of the church.

A motion picture, "The Passion Play," depicting scenes in the life of Christ, will be screened at Jones Avenue Methodist church at 7 o'clock tomorrow night, the picture being shown by G. H. Snellings, while at North Avenue Presbyterian church Dr. Wilburn A. Cleveland, of Jacksonville, Fla., will speak at both services.

Dr. William Crowe, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Talladega, Ala., and a former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern), will preach at the morning service at Central Presbyterian church. His theme will be "On a Wagon Train to the Nile Valley."

At Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, Dr. J. McLaren Cook, pastor of the Baptist church at the University center, Cambridge, England, will supply the pulpit at both services in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Ryland Knight. Services at the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night will be conducted by the Rev. Hayden Hollingsworth, a former Atlantan, and now pastor of the Farmville Presbyterian church.

The Rev. Wayne L. Hunter, chaplain at the Atlanta penitentiary, will have charge of the morning service at First Christian church, while the speaker at the night service will be County Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey. Dr. W. H. Faust, secretary of evangelism of the Georgia Baptist convention, will preach at home-coming exercises at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at Bethany Baptist church, Oconee county, while at the Atlanta Gospel Tabernacle Mrs. Mabel Bailey Willey, missionary to Panama, will address the Sunday school class at 9:30 a. m. and the young people's department at 7 p. m.

MASS SLAYER DIES IN TATTNALL CHAIR

Marion Hunter Protests Innocence to Last.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP) Protesting his innocence to the last, Marion Hunter, young Savannah negro, died in the electric chair at Tattnall state prison today as the slayer of five persons at Savannah last December.

Convicted of killing Tom Chester, Hunter also was accused of killing Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tillman and their two small daughters. He was convicted a month after the Tillmans were found battered to death in their one-room cabin and Chester's body was found in a near-by shop.

Shortly before the execution, A. T. Walden, Atlanta representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, had announced an investigation had convinced him of Hunter's guilt. Two sanity commissions examined Hunter recently, reporting him sane.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 6th, 3 P. M.
A THRILLING HOUR—HEARING AND SEEING THE WORLD'S MOST REMARKABLE MUSICAL FAMILY
DR. AND MRS. WILLIAM FETLER
AND THEIR 12 CHILDREN IN THE "RAINBOW ORCHESTRA"
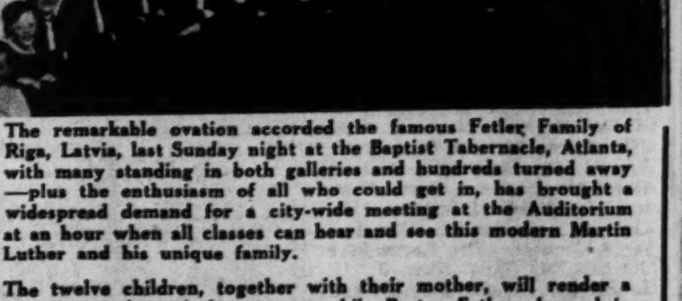
CONDUCTED BY JACKY, A BOY OF 8



The remarkable ovation accorded the famous Fetler Family of Riga, Latvia, last Sunday night at the Baptist Tabernacle, Atlanta, with many standing in both galleries and hundreds turned away—plus the enthusiasm of all who could get in, has brought a widespread demand for a city-wide meeting at the Auditorium at an hour when all classes can hear and see this modern Martin Luther and his unique family.

The twelve children, together with their mother, will render a most unusual musical program, while Pastor Fetler, dressed in his national costume, will speak on "MY MINISTRY IN RUSSIA, PERSECUTION, IMPRISONMENT, SENTENCE TO SIBERIA, AND GOD'S WONDERFUL DELIVERANCE."

PEPSI-COLA SOLD TO WRIGHT GROUP

Georgia Franchise, Atlanta Plant Included in $250,000 Deal.

A $250,000 combined business and realty deal involving the Georgia Pepsi-Cola bottling franchise, the building occupied by the concern at the corner of Poole and West Whitehall street, and the entire equipment of the plant was consummated yesterday with a group headed by H. H. Wright, former head of the Big Boy Bottling Company, as the purchasers.

Associated with him will be Harry P. Woodward, of the real estate firm of Sharp-Boylston, as vice president, and F. G. Chappell, as secretary and treasurer.

The new company, which will take over the plant and equipment at once, will be known as the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company.

Wright, who is head of the new company, is well known in the bottling business, having been engaged in this work for the past 15 years. He was born and reared in LaGrange, and is a graduate of Georgia Tech.

Jos Lapides, of the parent Pepsi-Cola Company of New York, represented the seller in the deal. All negotiations were handled through Sharp-Boylston Company, realtors. The Atlanta attorneys for the sellers were Alston, Foster, Moise and Sibley, and for the purchasers the firm of Woodruff and Ward and John I. Kelley.

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL HELD IN SHOOTING OF UNCLE

HICKORY FLAT, Miss., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A 15-year-old blond beauty living near here was jailed today at Ashland in connection with the shooting of her great uncle, Maudie Watson (Boss) Thompson, 55, well-to-do farmer.

Pending a diagnosis of Thompson's injury no formal charge is filed. He was reported "near death" at a New Albany hospital.

Sheriff Frank Ferrell said the girl, Audrey Thompson, acknowledged firing a .38 pistol at her late father's uncle last night.

The girl and her mother were quoted by Sheriff Ferrell as saying the shooting followed a family argument in which "Boss" threatened the mother.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 138

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As they rounded a corner, one of the huge hunting lions loomed up ahead of them. "The knife!" Tarzan commanded O'Rourke, "the knife Wong gave you." With a savage snarl, the carnivore gathered his tawny body for the charge, his yellow-green eyes fixed on Kailuk.

As the beast sprang forward, the Rathorian turned to run toward the distant buildings, his only refuge. "No! Don't run! You can't make it!" Tarzan cried. With soldierly obedience, Kailuk turned to face the charge of the jungle killer, grimly resigned to death.

Then Tarzan, agile as a leopard, leaped forward and thrust Kailuk from the path of the hurtling beast. Before the great jungle cat could turn and gather himself for a second charge, the ape-man landed full upon his back. An arm encircled the tawny throat.

Taloned paws beat the air as Tarzan buried his knife again and again into the creature's side. With a last choking cough, the lion sank lifeless to the ground. "Tarzan!" Perry exclaimed, "we've got to beat it! Look down there—coming toward us—guards!"
